Start Hearing Witnesses In 'Mercy Killing'

Formal Trial Of Dr. Sander Begins During Morning

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 23.—The state opened its murder case against Dr. Hermann N. Sander today with the charge that the handsome, 41-year-old physician had admitted his cancer patient would have lived two days longer if he had not injected air into her veins.

Sander's admission, Attorney General William L. Phinney said in his opening statement to the jury, was made to Dr. Robert E. Byron, who was called in as medical referee when the death chart of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, the patient, was under discussion.

Phinney declared that Dr. Sander admitted to Dr. Byron that Mrs. Borroto had died of air injections. The prosecutor added that Dr. Sander had told Dr. Byron he injected air because of 59-year-old Mrs. Borroto's "pleading."

The prosecutor quoted Dr. Sander as having said he "might have broken the law—but that the law was not right and should be changed."

"Morally Right"

Dr. Sander, according to Phinney, insisted he was "morally right."

He said Dr. Sander had stated he injected the air "in a moment of weakness as a result of Mrs. Borroto's pleas."

"Mrs. Borroto might have lived two more days if she had not received the injections of air from Dr. Sander," Phinney declared.

The prosecutor said Dr. Sander insisted his conscience was clear and that he had done nothing morally wrong.

He said the state will prove that air injection in the veins will cause an embolism and death.

Medical testimony, he said, will show that the 40 CC of air administered into the woman's veins did cause her death.

"The deliberate, premeditated killing," he said, "under our law is murder. The law is designed for the protection of all the citizens."

Still Remains A Killing

"The motive behind any killing, whether it is good or bad still remains a killing."

Phinney wound up the state's presentation without, however, asking the death penalty for his old friend and schoolmate.

The state then called the first witness, Dr. Harold I. L. Loverud, chief of medical staff at the Hillsborough County Hospital where Mrs. Borroto died. An X-ray specialist, he is also on the staff of the Sacred Heart Hospital, Notre Dame.

He stood quietly in the witness box as the questioning began.

U.S. May Adopt New Policy With 'Iron Curtain' Nations

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The United States may embark on an "eye for an eye" policy with iron curtain nations and clamp down on U. S. activity of Russian and satellite diplomats and newsmen.

Proponents of the plan argue that the Communist countries might recognize pressure applied to them in the same manner that they apply it against the U. S.

The current decision to break diplomatic relations with Bulgaria is believed by some observers to indicate a move in this direction.

An Impelling Motive

The inability of the U. S. to have its consular officers see Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman sentenced to 15 years in jail by a Hungarian court, before his trial, is also regarded as an impelling motive for reconsidering previous decisions not to take retaliatory action.

The State department has hitherto rejected any suggestions of retaliatory restraints on diplomats and newsmen on the theory that the U. S. must maintain itself as a good example of freedom before the world.

However, this procedure has not resulted in rousing any followers. In fact, restraints on western diplomats behind the iron curtain have increased rather than decreased.

Way Is Barred

In Russia, which sets the pattern of behavior for all its satellites, diplomats can rarely see top officials although it is a standing rule of international law that an official of international law that an

Report $350,000 Jewel Robbery In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—(INS)—

Four masked gunmen broke into the palatial home of William G. Mather in suburban Bratenahl today and took an estimated $350,000 worth of jewels from a safe.

Mather's wife, Elizabeth, was slugged by the thugs and forced to reveal the combination to the safe. She had been roused from her sleep by the robbers, whose mode of entry still has police puzzled.

Walter Mussel, a male nurse who has been attending the 92-year-old industrialist, then entered the room and was promptly tied up.

Up to Federal Government

The state has no rationing plans under consideration inasmuch as the governor considers the coal dispute a problem for the federal government since it has acted under the Taft-Hartley Act to attempt to force miners to resume production, according to Governor Duff.

Very little coal is above ground in the bituminous areas while in the hard coal fields miners have been on a three-day work week since December 5.

Hard coal production under the short week averages 600,000 tons a week, according to State Mines Secretary Richard Maize.

He said the fuel situation in the New England States, chief import—(Continued on Page Two)

No State Move Is Planned In Crisis On Coal

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Gov. James H. Duff has no plans to convene the General Assembly in special session to enact legislation giving him authority to take steps to ease the lack of fuel stemming from the soft coal strike.

The governor said he has not received any serious complaints as a result of the coal crisis but is keenly aware of the seriousness of the fuel shortage. The next regular session of the assembly starts next January.

Lewis And Coal Operators In Parley Today

Final Talks Before U.M.W. Is Hailed Into Court On Friday

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—John L. Lewis and the coal operators met for their final round of talks today before the United Mine Workers union is hailed into court for violating an anti-strike order.

Critical Meeting

Government mediators pinned their hopes for a peaceful settlement of the soft coal strike on what happens in today's sessions of an eight-man subcommittee of key industry negotiators and union officials.

Despite public reports of "no progress" in the closed-door bargaining negotiations, the parties are believed to be relatively close together on money issues.

One source reported that the operators might offer a money increase of $1.20 a day, to be split between wages and welfare.

Lewis Demands

Lewis has been demanding a "package" of $1.85 a day, but it is believed he might settle for $1.40. Such a figure would provide a 50-cents-a-day pay boost for the miners, plus an increase of 15 cents a ton in the operators' contributions to the U.M.W. welfare fund.

In the intensive negotiations of the past week, nothing apparently has been concretely offered by either side. But several under-the-table offers have been discussed and one operator said "there may be a break by Saturday."

Government Pressure

The government has turned full pressure on the wage sessions, hoping for progress that would render unnecessary a court showdown with the defiant miners and possibly federal seizure of the struck mines.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach has ordered the union to appear before him tomorrow to show cause why it should not be punished for defiance of a court decree issued 12 days ago for a return to work by 350,000 idle soft coal miners.

If the union is unable to purge itself sufficiently of contempt, it (Continued on Page Two)

Economic Paralysis Being Spread By Coal Shortages

By TROY GORDON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—The nation struggled against a creeping economic paralysis today as coal-short areas either appealed for help or took emergency measures because of a lack of fuel.

With John L. Lewis and the operators apparently still deadlocked in negotiations, and the miners refusing to work without a contract, coal dealers were squeezing the last speck of "dust" from their depleted stockpiles.

Situation 'Desperate'

The situation in St. Louis, where hospital officials have appealed to the United Mine Workers and the Progressive Miners Union for help, was described as "desperate."

Some hospitals were said to have only enough coal on hand to last today, with the section gripped in sub-freezing temperatures.

The Illinois Commerce commission meets today to hear reports from 23 power companies. The commission is expected to order electric power consumption cut by 25 per cent and slash Chicago transportation. Some 104 schools have been closed in Illinois affecting 50,000 pupils.

In Cleveland, 150 residents were refused emergency coal rations last night because the supply was exhausted.

Huge Clock To Be Erected

Within the next few months, probably in May, the Pennsylvania Power company will install a 12-foot, illuminated clock on top of the company's sub-station at West Washington and Front streets.

It will be part of a large new Neon sign.

The clock will be illuminated and face the central business section, hence the time may readily be told from a long distance.

The company formerly had a large sign on the sub-station. However, with the beginning of World War II, all of it, excepting the frame-work, was removed.

The clock will be installed on this frame-work.

The order for the clock already has been placed, Pennsylvania Power company attaches reported today.

Predicted Snow Fails To Arrive In North Section Of State

(By International News Service)

A new touch of winter hit the western Pennsylvania area today, bringing snow flurries and sub-freezing temperatures.

Low temperatures for the district were recorded at Erie, where the mercury dipped to 19, Ridgeway, 20, Ebensburg, 18, and 17 at Meadville.

Highways generally were reported clear, with the big snow predicted to materialize in the north section yesterday amounting to only about two inches in mountain areas.

The forecast calls for continued cold weather tomorrow, and continued sub-freezing temperatures.

Women Voters May Be Decisive Factor At Polls

Expect Outcome Of Balloting Will Be Rather Close

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(European General Manager, I. N. S.)

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The British electorate turned out in possibly numbers today to decide whether Socialism will be the law of the land for the next five years or make way for the Conservative policies of Winston Churchill.

Women voters—perhaps the decisive factor in this first general election since 1945—went to the polls in force, outnumbering the men from the time the balloting started at 7 a. m. (2 a. m. EST) until the late afternoon.

Women Are Voting Heavy

In some areas, the ratio of voters was three women to one man, a clear indication of the manner in which the election has settled down to domestic issues such as rationing and the like.

Constituencies in most areas reported a "strong to heavy" poll throughout the morning and afternoon. This was recorded despite rain in Scotland, West England and Northern England and a drizzle in other areas.

London continued cloudy but rainless. Glasgow and Edinburgh reported heavy Scottish pollings, with women voters generally in the lead.

Laborite headquarters in London issued a statement of confidence based upon an analysis of the numbers at the polls, but the Conservatives likewise saw favor in the heavy turnout.

Leaders Out

Prime Minister Clement Attlee and his attractive wife, who drove their little black sedan on his 1,000-mile stumping tour, visited his constituency of suburban Walthamstow and toured polling places.

Churchill spent most of the morning at his Hyde Park Gate home, the front door of which bore the inscription "For Rent from February 23" marked in chalk by a joker.

Later, he and Mrs. Churchill made a 20-mile tour of his constituency, Woodford, and viewed long lines of voters in front of many polling places.

Two Children Die As Fire Burns Home

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—An exploding stove was blamed today for causing the fire which resulted in the deaths of two children in their two-room log cabin home in a tourist-trailer colony near Hershey.

The victims were Jeffery Crouse, three, and his one-year-old sister, Judith Ann.

The mother, Mrs. Russell Crouse was visiting in a trailer about 13 feet from the children when she saw the flames and rushed to the cabin in an attempt to save them. The raging fire prevented her from entering. The father was away at the time of the blaze.

Deputy Coroner C. M. Wallace said the children died of suffocation and third degree burns.

Funds Asked For Research On New 'Miracle' Drug

By JOHN HARMS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Agriculture Department asked Congress today for special funds to develop a "spectacular" miracle drug for treatment of arthritis.

Dr. G. E. Hilbert, chief of agricultural and industrial chemistry, asked a House appropriations subcommittee for $200,000 for research on plants to produce low-cost codlins, "which promises spectacular success in the treatment of arthritis."

Recent Discovery

The new drug, discovered recently by a scientist of the Mayo Clinic, also holds promise "of solution" for "old-age diseases," rheumatic fever, bout and "a whole group of vague mental and degenerative diseases," Hilbert declared.

At the present the drug is available in limited quantity for as much as $100 a small dose. The present scarcity and high price make the drug prohibitive to the majority of the seven million cases of arthritis in America, Hilbert pointed out. He said:

"It has been accepted with phenomenal rapidity by the medical profession as a most promising solution for that group of afflictions generally known as 'old-age diseases.'"

"It is the only drug known which will rapidly bring about the remission of all symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis."

He said that "many millions of (Continued on Page Two)

Arthur Mometer

These are days when a fellow should carry a spare umbrella, top coat and hose, for when he goes out the weather may change, what kind it will be goodness knows. He goes to bed at nights and the weather is warm and the rain is descending in sheets, he wakes in the morning, all shivery like and there's gusts of snow in the streets. So why not a spare with his usual attire, so he'll match what the weather will be, it might save him snuffles and barking and colds and the weather is cool, twenty-six.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Some varied weather conditions were experienced in the past 24 hours locally. Last night the thermometer in the early evening climbed up to around 48 and it was still raining. Early this morning local residents were rather surprised to find that temperature was registered around 20 degrees, but that the rain had ceased during the night, and fortunately there was no ice on the highways or streets, all being dry.

No new detours are shown on the Pennsylvania Highway Department Detour Bulletin for the period ending March 17, but a statement issued in connection with the current bulletin states that more than 1,700 miles of Pennsylvania highways will be improved in 1950, which will undoubtedly result in plenty of red marks on the bulletin this summer.

U.S. Faces Vital Decision

American policy makers soon will face another vital decision in the cold war struggle with Russia. This has no direct connection with the A-bomb and H-bomb control controversy—about which the Russian people have not been told anyway by their government.

It is a decision concerning the Far East, where Russia has the initiative through the Chinese Communist victory and the new Moscow-Peking 30-year military and political alliance.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup, roving American ambassador, is returning home from his Far Eastern tour. He will make his report and then it is up to the State department.

Dangerous Development
Russia's recognition of the Ho Chi-Minh rebel faction in French Indo-China was one of the most dangerous developments in the east-west struggle since the Berlin blockade.

Amid the present controversy about atomic control, pegged on the idea Russia might make a peaceful concession, foreign observers point out that American diplomacy already had given Russia a chance to let the "cold war" cool off.

This was when Secretary of State Acheson declared a "hands off" policy toward Formosa, China and the southeastern Asian nations.

If the Russians wanted to relax the situation they never would have abruptly recognized the Ho Chi-Minh in Indo-China.

The Russians increased the pressure by recognizing Ho Chi-Minh as the Moscow-trained rebel leader who has been fighting the French ever since Japan surrendered.

Arms and Aid To Flow
The implication is that soon

From Me To You

By MESEALL

This will be the prayer that will be offered up by millions of people all over the world Friday . . . during the World Day of Prayer.

O GOD, OUR FATHER, we lift to Thee our grateful praise. Thou art our strong Deliverer. In hours of darkness Thou hast been our support; in joy our Companion. From Thy hand comes every good gift. For family and friends, for beauty and laughter, for work and prayer, we give Thee thanks. Above all we thank Thee for the gift of Thy blessed Son for our redemption.

Forgive, O Lord, the littleness of our return for Thy great bounty. Save and deliver us from the sins that so easily beset us. . . our selfishness, our pride, our anxiety, our envy, our eagerness to be praised, our resentments, our unkindness, our narrowness of vision, our complacency before the agony of the world. By Thy grace heal our unlovely divisions of nation, race and class and unite Thy Church to serve Thee by serving all mankind.

Create in us, O God, clean hearts and a right spirit. Give strength for the daily task, and help us to see each duty, however small, as a service done for Thee. Let us feel Thee near in whatever we may befall us. Thou knowest our cares; grant us Thy peace. Knit us together in love and labor and use us by Thy Spirit for the healing of the nations.

To Thy guidance, our Father, we commit ourselves. Do with us as Thou wilt. In Christ's name. AMEN.

LOADED FOR BEAR

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Really An Appalling Story

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Remember not so long ago that rash of articles and books about the shocking condition of the nation's mental institutions? The interest even broken over into the movies and at least one powerful film came out of it.

That flurry of interest undoubtedly produced good. Some of the more filthy medieval asylums were cleaned up. The poor, tortured inmates were given at least a chance for decency and comfort.

But most of the same people who briefly engaged the attention of the outside world are still locked up. Some of them with adequate care might be released and become self-supporting members of society. Others, if science had the money for research, might be cured.

A group of doctors and public-spirited citizens went to Congress the other day to tell this story. It is really a pretty appalling story.

Many Mental Patients

Half the hospital beds in the country are occupied by mental patients. One in every 18 persons is suffering from one form or another of mental illness. There is an immediate need for 350,000 more beds for mentally ill patients who cannot now be hospitalized.

If you want to paint in ever darker colors, you can add the figures on sex crimes, alcoholism, divorce, all symptoms of nervous and emotional disorder, and all sharply on the increase. Yet, even though mental illness costs up to half the country's total bill for sickness, only two percent of the money spent on research goes for this phase of study and exploration.

The doctors and the public-spirited citizens comprising the National Committee for Mental Hygiene were asking Congress for help. Three years ago there was created in the United States Public Health Service the National Institute of Mental Health. The institute received a small appropriation for the current year and $9,944,000 is included in the budget for 1950-51.

Asking $26,000,000

The committee is asking Congress to increase this to $26,000,000. That would go for research projects in connection with hospitals, asylums and universities. Many of these projects were long since approved, but they have been put on the shelf for lack of money.

That is especially frustrating and tragic to the doctors because they are beginning to feel that they may be on the trail of a treatment for a stubborn and hitherto incurable form of insanity known as schizophrenia. Schizophrenia accounts for nearly 50 percent of all patients who have been in mental hospitals for 10 years or more. The new experimental treatment is based on the use of cortisone and acth, the recently discovered hormones that have had some remarkable results in arthritis and rheumatism.

That world schizophrenia should be familiar just now even to casual newspaper readers. It means, in simplest terms, a split personality, and it was part of the confession of Klaus Fuchs who admitted to years of treason while deceiving his friends in his adopted country.

WISE HEART

The heart has wisdom of a gentler kind.

Than that which lights with brilliance the mind.

Knowledge of facts and figures can be gained.

By tutors taught and from the books obtained.

But life has deeper wisdom to impart

And trains with harsh experience the heart.

Man can be wise and still unfair remain;

Remember facts; forget the sting of pain;

Know just what flame will ore to metal turn

And still not know how deeply scorn will burn.

The mind, perfection constantly demands;

The heart, why mortals miss it, understands.

Life tries to teach us good and ill we share.

Sorrow and suffering all in time must bear.

The mind forgets when failure ends a truce

The troubled man is never at his best.

The wise heart, from experience recalls

That every child needs pity when he falls.

Running Out On Geniuses

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

You could have knocked me over with a second lieutenant's dignity, when I read the statement by Major General Clovis E. Byers that the army is worried because it is running out of geniuses.

I wonder if General Byers was referring to the United States Army. I wonder this because when I was in the army not so many years ago every enlisted man I knew was a genius in one line or another.

I was even a genius myself. I hadn't been in the army more than two weeks before I discovered that if I didn't want to spend so much time on KP that I would begin to look like a potato I would have to figure out a way to keep from having to make up my cot every morning. I simply could not do it quickly enough and efficiently enough to suit the sergeant.

Had To Become Genius

So, I had to become a genius at getting into a properly made up cot, sleeping in it all night, and getting out of it without disturbing its symmetry. A buddy would help me slue in under the taut covers, and I would sleep all night, rigid as a mummy. The same friend would ease me out in the morning by pulling on my head and neck. I got to be such a genius at this that I had to make up my bed but once a week, for a change of sheets and mattress cover.

Then there was the khaki acquaintance of mine who was a genius at stealing books of passes from the company orderly room and signing the captain's name to it. He got so good at signing the captain's name that the captain's real signature began to look like a forgery. It was a bad night for him when he couldn't get at least thirty of us in to Macon from Camp Wheeler.

There was also that truly great genius on Bougainville who could make a superb brandy, a brandy that could hold up its head with the great ones of France, out of nothing but oatmeal, a few raisins, water from Empress Augusta Bay, and privacy from the peering eyes of officers. This man had been an interior decorator in private life, but once his country became endangered and summoned him to become a brandy maker his latent genius rose to the surface like a salmon after a fly.

Here's Another Genius

I mustn't overlook another genius—a full private, who borrowed an old camera and in his spare time tramped all over Leyte taking pictures of supply officers after telling them that he was with the Signal Corps and the pictures were for nationwide distribution back home. He never mentioned the fact that he didn't have a bit of film, and thus was able to work the vain officers for enough clothing and food to open a store.

There was genius shown too by the officers when the enlisted Wacs came to Manila. Bars, leaves, eagles and stars, even, were yanked off as the officers posed as enlisted men to get dates.

Don't worry, General Byers. If another war comes, genius will pop out where you least expect it.

Butch likes to help Granddad in the garden. He likes to plant things and watch them grow.

He likes to eat carrots and cucumbers and tomatoes right out of the garden.

Granddad is very careful of his tools. One day Butch forgot and left the rake lying in the grass with the tines sticking up. Grandma stepped on it. The handle flew up. It broke her glasses and gave her a black eye.

Butch was sorry but it didn't help the black eye very much. Garden tools are pretty dangerous if they are left lying on the ground.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Ever since Albert Einstein made his latest discovery a couple of months ago, Einstein stories have again become very popular.

Nobody—or at least almost nobody—understands the Professor's theories and discoveries. But the funny stories are not about his work. People respect that just as they respect most everything else they don't understand.

So they make jokes about his hair, his violin-playing, his forgetfulness, his wife, his dog.

Here is one of the Einstein yarns I heard a couple of days ago.

You may have heard it, too, since the greatest distributors of stories—outside of radio comedians—are still the traveling salesmen. A good story told to a prospective customer is usually good for an order possible, therefore, that your grocer may have told you this one or your cleaning woman may have got it from the plumber and passed it on to you.

Mrs. Einstein, so the story goes, was visiting in California.

Her hosts took her to all the places they thought would interest the wife of such a great intellectual.

One of the excursions was up to Mt. Palomar where the largest telescope in the world is located.

In case you have forgotten, that telescope has a 200-inch lens and penetrates 1000 million light years in the sky.

Whoever was in charge explained the whole business to Mrs. Einstein, and told her that they hoped some day to solve the great riddle of the universe with it.

Whereupon Mrs. Einstein replied with a shrug of the shoulder: "You need such a big thing to solve the riddle of the universe? My husband does that on the back of an old envelope."

I don't vouch for the truth of that story.

But there is a lot of truth in what the lady is supposed to have said.

I don't deny that Mt. Palomar telescope is a wonderful undertaking. Undoubtedly they will discover a whole lot of new astronomical facts with it.

But it does seem to me that a whole lot of problems the human mind makes so terribly complicated might much more easily be solved on the back of an old envelope.

Of course, you might say, "What do you mean 'more easily'?" You call Einstein's stuff 'easy'?"

Not to you or me. But to Einstein his formulae ARE easy. To his mind a piece of paper and a pencil are all the tools necessary.

To Jesus the problems of peace and brotherly love were simple. He did not need all the palaver, all the pomp and panoply, all the conferences and meetings, all the bombs and planes and ships, all the billions and billions of dollars wasted on the futile effort to bring peace to the world.

He gave it all to us in the Sermon on the Mount, which could be written in space not much larger than the back of an envelope.

A simple formula, all ready for us to use.

And look where we are! (Copyright, 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

And Nothing Can Be Done About It : BY H. T. WEBSTER

AL TOLD ME A GOOD ONE TODAY. A COUPLE OF GOLF PLAYERS SAW A WOMAN OUT ON THE FAIRWAY ONE DAY. SHE WAS HUNTING FOR FOUR LEAFED CLOVER.

ONE OF THE MEN WAS READY TO DRIVE. HE YELLED FOR A COUPLE OF TIMES, BUT THE WOMAN PAID NO ATTENTION. THE OTHER FELLOW SAID, "TRY HER AT THREE NINETY EIGHT."

DON'T YOU GET IT? YOU KNOW WOMAN'S WEAKNESS FOR BARGAINS

OH

IS THAT SUPPOSED TO BE FUNNY?

2-25

HOW HIGH CAN YOU COUNT?

Can you count up to 300 in one minute without running out of wind? Even if you're that good, you couldn't come close to counting 42,000,000,000 in one lifetime. So it is a good thing that it will not be necessary to hire a man to count, a dollar at a time, the $42,439,000,000 President Truman estimates in his budget the federal government will spend in the fiscal year ending in 1951.

A man counting dollar bills at 300 a minute would count 720,000 in a 40-hour week. In a 50-week year—two weeks' vacation—he would succeed in counting 36,000,000. After 1,000 years (assuming that the poor fellow was doomed to eternal life at his job) he would have reached 36,000,000,000 with only 6,439,000,000 still to go to finish the 1950 budget. He would be finished in another 180 years plus, or some time in the year 3131 A.D.

By that time, presumably, he would be about ready to retire on an old-age pension. But his arduous 1,180 years of labor wouldn't help in getting Uncle Sam's expenditures counted in 1950. If we needed that job done, our man would literally have to count by ten-thousand-dollar bills, not by dollars.

Counting by tens of thousands, or at the rate of three million a minute, he could rush through the job in two months. That would leave him more than 10 months to count it over again a few times to make sure he hadn't made any mistakes.

But the 1950 budget, at that, seems to be easier to count than to balance. Mr. Truman expects it to be in the red by $5,133,000,000. Even that sum would take our original dollar-by-dollar man until some time in 2093 to count.

ARE THE OAKS DOOMED?

A fungus blight on oak trees is "deeply entrenched" in the Middle West and spreading eastward at the rate of 50 miles a year. It kills trees by blocking the water-conducting tubes. Two weeks after the leaves begin to wilt the tree is dead. No hope is held out by Dr. Wendell H. Camp, a curator of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences.

Fungus spores are carried eastward and southward by the winds. Dr. Camp sees no point in destroying infected trees. He seems to feel it is too late for such preventive action.

But perhaps he is wrong. The Dutch elm disease is a fungus too. In Rhode Island and other New England states chemicals are being injected that seem to give the elms more resistance. It should do no harm to build up a tree's bodily resistance by feeding it properly. Small holes are dug and fertilizers poured in where the roots can use them.

The destruction of oaks would be a major calamity. Since a blight killed the chestnuts, oak has been a leading fence-post material in many areas. Though much of the big oak timber is gone—Delaware white oak was famous in shipbuilding for centuries—there is still enough left for occasional cutting.

It is difficult to visualize anything prettier than the flaming reds and yellows of oak leaves in the fall. Come on, you scientists, and do something quickly!

ARIZONA JACKPOT

In these days of billion dollar appropriations and multi-million dollar grabs at the Federal treasury perhaps Senate Bill 75 and House of Representatives Bill 934 do not cause the anguish they once might have caused.

The bills provide for a $738,000,000 appropriation to divert waters of the Colorado River onto Arizona land. To us, this sounds like a whopping lot of money and before it is granted should be given some careful and prayerful consideration.

If passed and put into operation the acts would give water to 226,000 acres of land in Arizona. Land condemnations would cost $231,000,000 and this money would be divided among 420 owners or an average of $550,000 each, or better than $1,000 per acre which seems like a lot of money for any Arizona land we have ever seen.

Further, the water move for Arizona would deprive millions of Californians of much needed water and the water levels are lower there now than they have ever been.

Finally, Arizona wants nearly as much money for this one job as has been paid out for reclamation work in 17 western states from 1939 to 1949.

Arizona is a small state, possibly one half million people. On the basis of this grab, Pennsylvania should put in a bill to appropriate nearly fifteen billion dollars for some project or other.

It's a good college try Arizona is making, but Arizonians might remember that $738,000,000 is a lot of money, even in the days of deficit spending.

Soviet Russia will lend China $300,000,000. Uncle Sam can testify that Moscow will not get it back.

Uncle Sam, we read, has stored 8,000 tons of dried eggs in a cave. Expecting company for breakfast?

Psychologists say green is the most soothing color, (especially the kind that has numbers in each corner.)

You can hardly find a woman nowadays who will admit that she can remember when Indian-head pennies were in circulation.

Icy Roads Cause Trucks Collision

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—State police today blamed icy roads for causing a three-truck collision that strung up traffic for four hours on Route 22, several miles east of Harrisburg.

One truck driver, Allen Kreft, 38, of St. Louis, sustained minor burns and cuts of the body when he was pulled from a flaming truck cab.

Police said the accident chain reaction started when one truck skidded into a roadside ditch. Another truck following close behind, rammed the first one.

Shortly after, the third truck was forced off the road into the wrecked machines. The injured man was driving the second vehicle.

The wreckage jammed up trucks and cars for several miles.

A corps of state policemen were needed to handle the congested traffic.

Communist Gangs Active

French Communist activity in behalf of the Russian tactics in Indo-China noticeably increased after the Soviet recognition of Ho.

Communist-led gangs fought dockers and police to try to prevent the sailing of arms to Indo-China. They are also ready to try to sabotage American arms scheduled soon to flow into France as part of the Atlantic Pact.

The American government, after studying Jessup's report, must decide whether to limit its aid to southeast Asia or to give it heavy support, including arms.

The hard-pressed French and other western leaders worried about southeast Asia of course say that nothing short of armed aid will stop the Communists, in line with Secretary Acheson's avowed "agreement through strength" policy.

Personal To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complaints of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Should American Men Wear Plaid Dinner Jackets?

Fashion Experts Clash On Clothing Question

By DON WINKS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Two New York fashion experts clashed today on the sartorial question of whether American men should wear bright plaid dinner jackets. Although to the casual eye this question may seem trivial, it is regarded in clothing circles as having deep implications. Namely, just how much gilding will Joe American take? Leonard Rothgerber, fashion consultant for the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furriers which is showing the new jackets in Chicago, thinks he will take a lot. Rothgerber said: "These formal jackets are the high fashions of the moment, but fashion usually starts as high fashion before being generally accepted. The colors are nothing compared with what men wore in Revolutionary War days. And no one thinks of calling George Washington a sissy."

Just "Bad Taste"
But Bert Vacharach, another authority on men's fashion, believes the jackets—and those shown are in both tartan plaids and solid reds—are just "bad taste." He contended: "The colors are improper, aren't good fashion, and aren't in good taste. There is no possibility that they will sell."

Both experts agree, however, that summer will find the off-duty American male in a much cooler—and conspicuous—position than ever before. Sportsman being exhibited by the association flashes every color of the rainbow. Some materials are so sheer you can get a sun-tan without taking them off.

Following the pattern set in Palm Beach, in California, and on the Riviera, "walking shorts" are expected to replace slacks. Name a color, and you'll get it.

For business, the trend is toward coolness and comfort. Suits are stripped of heavy padding and made of light weight combination nylon-wool fabrics.

Dress shirts feature the "vanishing band collar," a device which gives sports-shirt comfort with dress shirt neatness.

Joint Hi-Y Clubs Hear VA Speaker
A joint meeting of the Shenango and Union Hi-Y clubs was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening.

W. R. Anderson of the local Veterans Administration Office spoke to the two clubs about the importance of their high school studies and courses in preparing for their college or vocational future.

Mr. Anderson, who is the vocational advisor of the V.A. here, told the boys many interesting and valuable experiences which have come to him in his work. Many of the Hi-Y members asked personal advice concerning their individual vocational problems and were given helpful and friendly guidance about their problems.

The Union and Shenango Hi-Y clubs are participating in a State-wide series of lectures on subjects valuable to high school students, one of which was the talk on vocations.

Russia's A-Bomb Increases Difficulty For Western Europe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson testified today that Russia's possession of the atomic bomb increases the need for the full economic recovery of western Europe.

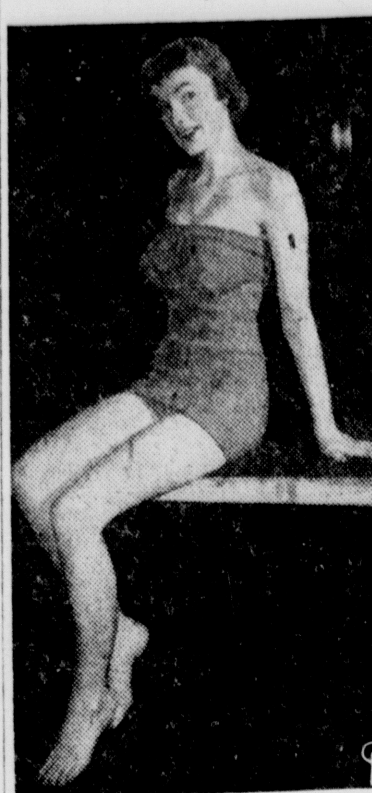

Acheson told the Senate foreign relations committee that the A-bomb in Russian hands "obviously increases the difficulties of the situation." He said that unless western Europe is prosperous, there is "no chance of developing security."

His statements were made in response to a question by Sen. Smith (R) N. J., who asked what effect Russian possession of the bomb has had on the economic recovery of Europe. Acheson replied: "Obviously it increases the difficulties of the situation. Surely any increase in the strength of the Russian military potential is a very important factor."

Smith asked: "It doesn't change the situation—we still must give priority to economic recovery?" Acheson replied: "We have to. Unless there is a strong economic base, there is no chance to develop security."

HOW TO KEEP WARM

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(INS)—All you have to do to keep warm at Chicago's Lincoln Park zoo is make a monkey of yourself.

To save coal, zoo director R. Marlin Perkins cut the temperature in the monkey house corridor to a chilly 60 degrees.

Inside the glass cages, the apes had a hot time watching half-frozen spectators. The temperature was 78. Perkins said the heat was kept up to protect the health of the tropical animals.

That Fireball Of Oct. 26

The New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Editor:

Last November I sent you a letter asking you to print a little story requesting eye-witnesses of the brilliant light seen in the sky on Oct. 26, 1949 to get in touch with me. You did print a story and because of it I was able to get in touch with 120 people who saw the fireball. It has taken this length of time to follow up all the letters and arrive at a solution to the problem.

Because of your fine cooperation in printing my letter that enables me to arrive at a solution, I have written a little story of that solution to show my appreciation. The story is enclosed.

Please accept my thanks and those from the American Meteor Society for your great help.

Very truly yours,
American Meteor Society,
Claude H. Smith,
Regional Director,
R. D. 1, Waterloo, N. Y.

The story follows:

On October 26, 1949, at about 9 p.m., many residents of New York and Pennsylvania were startled and somewhat frightened by a large ball of fire that appeared in the sky traveling from east to west and exploded in great blaze of light.

Many newspapers received calls from people who had witnessed the spectacle. As regional director of the American Meteor Society I believe that a solution for this object could be worked out. Appeals for eye-witnesses to contact me were published in several newspapers. Altogether 120 letters were received from residents of New York and Pennsylvania who had seen the fiery object streak across the sky.

After a great deal of work, consisting of writing and in some cases rewriting all those witnesses, a solution to the problem was reached. The final figures on this fireball are somewhat better than others worked out due mostly to quite a few excellent observations being received. The following is a report of the facts on this fireball:

Bluish Ball Of Fire

About 9 p.m. on Oct. 26, 1949, a large bluish ball of fire, at least 3/4 the size of the full moon, closely followed by several smaller balls of different colors, was first seen by observers just south of Tioga, Pa., at an elevation of 61 miles. Sparks trailed behind the object as it traveled westward across Pennsylvania, arcing down toward the earth far beneath. It traveled a distance of 95 miles to a point a few miles north of Cornplanter, Pa., where it exploded in a great blaze of light at an altitude of 21 miles. Numerous red sparks flew from the explosion and disappeared as they dropped toward the earth. At this point a smaller ball of light emerged from the blaze and continued on with a deeper slope that helped account for the arc in the path of the fireball as witnessed by those from a distance. This smaller ball traveled about 17 miles farther to a point a mile or two east of Sugar Grove, Pa., and nearly on the New York State line. At this point it exploded again at an altitude of 14 or less miles and separated into two pieces that traveled seven miles farther before disappearing in the darkness. The ground point using a straight path would be near Wattsburg, Pa.

Near Sugar Grove, Pa.

Meteorites very likely were dropped by this fireball and the writer would predict that they should have reached the ground somewhere between just west of Sugar Grove, Pa. and Wattsburg, Pa., a distance of 20 miles, and between North Clymar, N. Y., and Corry, Pa., a distance of about 10 miles. The fact that the fireball was arcing sharply toward the earth should cut short the ground point. This should make the best place to look between Bear Lake, Pa., and where highway 426 crosses the state line and extending a few miles on each side of the state line. The two fragments that broke away at the second explosion and disappeared in the darkness between Sugar Grove, Pa., and Bear Lake, Pa., had apparently gotten down to a low height and might possibly have reached the ground intact. As either should have made a sizeable hole in the ground, all residents of the area are asked to report all newly appearing holes in the ground that cannot be accounted for. Residents of this area should also be on the lookout for smaller fragments that should have reached the ground without burying themselves deeply. These can be picked up as pieces of stone or iron that look as if they were covered with a coat of black varnish. If the black varnish is broken, it should show iron either wholly or as small specks in a stony interior. Any stone that is not like those usually found or appears to be heavier than others should be suspected.

If anyone should find any stones they think might be meteorites, please report them to the Regional Director, American Meteor Society, Claude H. Smith, R. D. 1, Waterloo, N. Y. $5.00 will be paid for the first one reported to the regional director.

The American Meteor Society wishes to thank the newspapers and the many observers, too numerous to mention by name, for the splendid way they cooperated and made this report possible.

Change Voltage On Rural Lines

Power Demand Is Reason For Change

Biggest job being undertaken at present by the Pennsylvania Power company is the changing over voltage of rural distribution lines in the Harlansburg-East Brook area, to meet the electric power needs of subscribers in that area.

At present the lines carry 4,800 volts. This will be increased to 8,320 volts.

It is one of several Pennsylvania Power company steps to fulfill a several years program of voltage changes in rural districts.

The change has become necessary by the tremendous growth in electric power, and is designed to provide for increased capacity.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The state today is planning to add a $5,000,000 building to the capitol group to house the bureau of unemployment compensation.

When completed, the building will occupy an entire city block and will be near the main capitol group, according to W. W. Spangler III, deputy property and supplies secretary.

Construction of the building will be placed ahead of the planned extension of capitol park, according to Spangler. The general state authority will handle both projects.

'Toothless' Victory Handed Truman In F.E.P.C. Action

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A House Republican-southern Democrat coalition early today tentatively handed President Truman a "toothless" victory by approving a fair employment practices bill without criminal penalties.

Filibuster-weary legislators voted 221-178 to accept the substitute bill offered by Rep. McConnell (R) Pa., in preference to the administration-supported measure by Rep. Powell (D) N. Y.

However, a final vote on the measure will not be made until the House reassembles shortly after noon today.

Final Vote Delayed

The final vote was delayed by the action of Rep. Biemiller (D) Wis., who forced the delay by demanding a printed copy of the bill with all its amendments be read.

When the House meets later today the vote on the bill will be the first order of business.

The House adjourned at 3:20 a. m. EST after Biemiller's action.

The voting early today came after more than 15 hours of continuous debate during which southern Democrats threw their support to the McConnell bill, apparently as the lesser of two evils. They have strenuously opposed any form of civil rights legislation.

Before the roll call vote the lawmakers tentatively decided 230-63 to accept the McConnell measure.

Amendment Offered

During debate several amendments were offered to the McConnell bill.

Originally it had called for no discrimination because of "race, creed or color." This was extended to include discrimination because of "physical disability, political affiliation or sex."

Proponents of the administration bill immediately scheduled a meeting in Powell's office for 11 a. m., presumably to decide whether to go along with the McConnell measure in the final vote, or to make an attempt to recommit the substitute bill.

Rep. Marcantonio (A-L) N. Y., announced he favors recommitment, which many believe would be tantamount to killing the legislation for this session.

Injured Girl Is 'Holding Her Own'

An attending physician stated today that although Esther Avenue's condition is still regarded as serious, she does have lucid intervals.

The fifteen-year-old girl, confined in the New Castle Hospital, was injured last Thursday—on week ago. She was en route to school, with her sister, Nancy 16, when struck by an auto which careened out of control down Ley Lutton street.

Both girls were taken to the hospital, however Nancy was not seriously injured.

Promises Probe Of Communism In State Department

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally (D) Tex., promised today that first steps toward a sweeping investigation of Communism in the State Department will be taken promptly—possibly before nightfall.

The Senator said that his committee might meet this afternoon to select the subcommittee which will conduct the probe set off by sensational charges leveled by Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis.

Connally refused to speculate on the membership of the subcommittee. But he said that its work would begin as soon as a staff can be assembled and predicted that the investigation will cost $25,000 to $50,000.

The Time The Anti-Trust Lawyers Killed Their Own Case!

For ten years the anti-trust lawyers have been attacking the business methods that make it possible to give the public the best quality food at the lowest prices.

In our last ad we told you how Federal Judge W. H. Atwell, at Dallas, threw the anti-trust lawyers and all their inflammatory charges against A&P right out of his court.

But the anti-trust lawyers were not satisfied with decisions against them by three federal judges.

They still wanted to destroy A&P.

They Appealed to New Orleans

So they appealed Judge Atwell's decision to the three-judge Circuit Court at New Orleans.

One of the three, Judge Curtis L. Waller, agreed with Judge Atwell that the case should be dismissed.

The other two members of the Circuit Court, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., and Judge Allen Cox, although saying the case should be tried, agreed that the indictment was vague and contained many allegations which were inflammatory.

They decided that Judge Atwell at Dallas should protect A&P from these inflammatory allegations and could order the anti-trust lawyers to supply the defendants with a bill of particulars.

So the case was back in Dallas again.

Judge Atwell, carrying out the decision of the Circuit Court, struck out the inflammatory matter.

He said that without this inflammatory and prejudicial matter the Grand Jury might never have returned the indictment.

Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"There are many statements in the indictment which are not at all in violation, and are highly prejudicial and inflammatory."

The anti-trust lawyers objected. They advanced an amazing argument. They said that the removal of their inflammatory allegations (which all four judges had agreed did not belong in the indictment) destroyed their case.

Judge Atwell instructed the anti-trust lawyers to furnish the court with a bill of particulars. In short, he wanted specific charges instead of vague generalities. He set the deadline for furnishing this material at January 15th, 1944.

When the anti-trust lawyers twice asked for more time, pleading sickness among their staff, Judge Atwell extended the time to February 25th because he believed that they were honestly trying, in good faith, to prepare the material he had requested.

Actually, it developed, they were using the time to get ready to drop the case in Dallas and start it in another court.

They Quit in Dallas

On February 26th, while the judge was still waiting for his answer, and without any previous notice to him, the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers in Washington, announcing that they were dropping the case in Dallas.

They said that it was their intention "to file a substantially similar suit in an appropriate jurisdiction at an early date."

The "early date" turned out to be the same day.

As soon as one anti-trust lawyer killed the case in Dallas, another anti-trust lawyer filed a new case in Danville, Illinois. This new case made most of the same allegations that had been made and dropped in Dallas; and that are being made against us today.

So now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, all four judges who had ruled on the Dallas case were wrong.

Despite defeats in three federal courts in widely separated parts of the country, they continued their campaign to destroy A&P.

When Judge Atwell heard of their action he ordered the anti-trust lawyers to prepare an order for his signature dismissing the Dallas case.

In signing this order he said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"This nolle prosequi does not have the sanction or approval of this court. That is not necessary, nor that the government ask for the court's approval."

"It is, however, a matter that may be presented to the other court and may be of interest to the people at large."

So after their efforts to destroy A&P had failed in Washington, D. C., Wilson, North Carolina, and Dallas, Texas, the anti-trust lawyers moved on to Danville, Illinois.

They were still determined to destroy this company which had brought more and better food at lower cost to millions of American families.

They Were Wrong Three Times Before!

Three times the anti-trust lawyers went into federal courts and made serious and damaging charges against A&P.

Three times federal judges said the anti-trust lawyers were wrong and rendered decisions against them.

In previous ads in this series we told you about these other anti-trust "cases" involving us, which the judges said were not cases at all.

We think you should know about these previous cases, because once again the anti-trust lawyers are making damaging "allegations" that could seriously affect our business if they were believed by the public.

There was the time in Washington, D. C., when they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix the price of bread in that city.

This was the time Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ruled that A&P and the other defendants did not even need to put in a defense. He instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Goldsborough said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all."

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

There was the time in Wilson, North Carolina, they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix prices paid farmers for their potatoes.

This was the time Federal Judge C. C. Wyche directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Wyche said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"In my opinion there is no testimony produced from which it can reasonably be inferred that the defendants entered into a combination to depress or lower the price of potatoes."

"I might say that I never tried a case in my life where a greater effort, more work, more investigation had been done, combing almost with a fine-tooth comb to gather evidence."

"But, as was said a long time ago, you can't make brick without straw, and you can't make a case without facts."

There was the time in Dallas, Texas, when they made practically the same "allegations" they are making today.

This was the time Federal Judge W. H. Atwell ruled that the case should not even be tried. He said that the indictment contained inflammatory statements that he would not permit to be presented to a jury.

It was the time Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"I know of no American rule, and I wish I had the power to underscore the word 'American,' which permits us to try a man because of his size."

"If I thought I was presiding over a court and that I might have to sentence some person because he was a great big fellow, or because he was a Lilliputian, I would feel like resigning. God knows we don't want it ever to occur in America that the size is going to determine whether a man is guilty or innocent."

TILE DRAINAGE REGARDED AS INVESTMENT, NOT EXPENSE

Every year—wet or dry—tile drainage improves crop production. That explains to a large extent why farmers who put in tile to drain wet spots regard their financial outlay as a capital investment rather than an expense.

The drainage adds to the convenience of farming, as anyone will attest who has had the experience of trying to go through or around wet spots with modern farm machines.

The wettest land on the farm generally is the richest, but is of no value if it cannot be worked. Tiling removes excess water, leaving the land ideally moist for growing crops. The number of tillable acres is thus increased, and these additional acres are obtained cheaper in most instances than new ones could be purchased.

Wet fields are hard to work. Time is lost in cultivating around wet spots which produce no crops. Tiled fields produce a crop from every possible acre and with less effort.

More farmers with wet spots in their fields are asking "Can I afford to be without good tile drainage?" Those who feel they "have got along all these years" without tile drainage and guess they "can do without it a little longer," are getting fewer in number all the time. Figures indicate that the increased production will pay for tile drainage in about two to five years. Properly installed and maintained, it will last a lifetime.

SWINE BREEDERS GETTING READY FOR SPRING LITTER

Looking forward to future pork production, swine breeders of Lawrence county are getting ready for the spring pig litters. Special attention given to the sows just previous to farrowing time produces big dividends in the health and condition of the spring pigs.

One big factor at this stage is the exercise and ration given the brood sows. Except in extremely bad weather, sows should be forced outdoors to get sufficient exercise for good health and physical condition. Such practices expose the sow to sunshine, which is important, in addition to the daily exercise.

Sills and other obstructions which may cause mechanical abortion should be guarded. Caretakers should handle sows frequently so the animal gets acquainted and will not be excited should the attendant enter the pen at farrowing time.

This is an ideal time to clean out pens and provide sanitary quarters when the sow is due to farrow. Attention to these details will give reasonable assurance that the sow will farrow a strong, thrifty litter of pigs.

The members signed a petition for this bill to be sent to Senator Francis J. Meyers. Individual letters are also to be sent to Senator Meyers.

Mrs. Kirk presided at the business session, when Miss Grace Kerr, treasurer, reported all dues must be paid by March 15, to qualify for a hold fast union.

A letter from Mrs. F. J. Fox, county president, concerning the February birthday party, was read with an offering being taken for that purpose.

FACTS About the Coal Crisis

For more than eight months, coal operators have been trying to make a contract with the mine workers' union. Before any new contract could be made, two union demands had to be eliminated:

1. Complete domination of coal production by the union, through its insistence on the "able and willing" and "memorial" clauses;
2. Insistence by the union on the power to exact enormous sums of money from employers to be spent as the union dictates on "welfare" for union members.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech upheld the view of the operators that these demands were not bargainable—were, indeed, illegal.

On "able and willing," Judge Keech said:

"Good faith does not permit such extraneous and unlawful provisions to be insisted upon by an employee group as a condition of wage agreement. To include such provisions would be tantamount to nullifying any agreement reached at its birth . . .

"The court concludes that insistence upon inclusion of the so-called 'able and willing' and 'memorial period' clauses in the negotiation of an agreement is a refusal to confer in good faith, and therefore a practice condemned by (the law)."

On union dictation and control of "welfare," Judge Keech declared:

"It is the opinion of the court that insistence that the welfare and retirement fund be administered so as to limit the benefits thereunder to union members and their dependents without compliance with the statutory requirements for a closed shop agreement, is in conflict with (the law)."

There can be no appeasement—no compromise—on these two fundamental issues.

AS TO THE SO-CALLED "MONEY ISSUES":

The ruthless power of the labor dictator is being used to "Kill the goose that lays the golden eggs."

Under the expired contract, wages, which the coal operators have offered to continue, are higher than those paid in any other major industry. The average hourly wage is $1.95 per hour, compared to $1.67 per hour in all manufacturing. This rate is also paid for lunch periods and "travel time," making the average underground earnings $2.40 per productive hour. In addition, vacation pay ($100.00 a year), social security, welfare and other payments increase labor costs to about $2.74 per productive hour.

Although the basic wage rate is $14.05 per day, on the basis of 6½ hours of actual work in underground mines, many rates are higher, so that the average daily pay amounts to $15.60.

If the additional labor costs are included, the figure is $17.81 per day.

Again and again, union monopoly in the coal industry has brought the country to the point of crisis to enforce its demands.

Since more than 60 per cent of the cost of mining coal is paid for labor, the price of coal to consumers has risen again and again.

Obviously, if this industry is to survive, there must be a stopping point.

Markets for coal are shrinking. It does not make sense to raise costs when markets are shrinking. That is the way to price the industry—operators—miners—railroads—retailers—out of the coal business.

The net effect is that union dictatorship is killing off the industry, is killing off jobs for miners. In the process, it is bringing suffering and hardship to all.

The Coal Operators Are Eager for a Working Contract with their Employees

There can be no true security for the American worker, no steady progress for American industry, as long as UNION MONOPOLY can dictate when a man shall work and when industry shall produce. There can be no sure protection for the American public as long as UNION MONOPOLY is free to shake its fist in the face of all!

Bulgaria Announces Diplomatic Break With United States

SOFIA, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The Sofia government announced officially today that diplomatic relations have been broken between Bulgaria and the United States.

(The U.S. on Tuesday formally severed relations with the Soviet satellite nation. Dr. Peter Voutov, charged d'affaires in Washington, was called to the State department and handed a sharp note which demanded his recall and that of the Bulgarian legation staff.)

The Bulgarian announcement said that Poland had agreed to attend to Bulgaria's interests in the United States.

America made the break after fruitless months of communication with Sofia concerning the treatment in Bulgaria of the U. S. legation staff and Minister Donald R. Heath.

The U. S. charged Bulgaria with "disregard of accepted international practice" and "restrictions, insults and harassments."

Fox Hunters Turn Into Fire Fighters

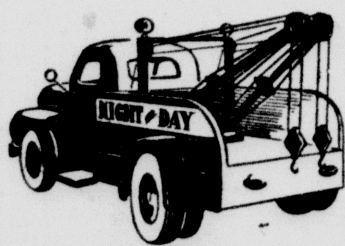

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Pink hunting coats turned into red firemen's shirts for 15 fox hunters, when a Maryland barn caught fire.

Inside the coats (or shirts) were 15 members of the Potomac Hunt Club, who abandoned their annual Washington's birthday fox hunt to lead four thoroughbred horses and six prize Angus cattle from the burning barn of farmer William C. Hanson.

The hunters were riding by when they noticed the flames. Damage to the barn was estimated at $10,000.

The fox got away.

In The Open

The student of trees has always a valid excuse for an excursion out of doors—even a better excuse than Thoreau's pursuit of last year's birds' nests. Most people enjoy the glory of trees in the bloom of spring, the foliage of summer, and the pageantry of autumn, but their interest wanes in winter. They see the trees then only as "bare ruined choirs where late the sweet birds sang".

In reality, at no season can one get a better understanding of trees than in winter. Characteristic features then stand out distinctly. The outlines against the sky, the bark upon the trunks, the manner of branching, distinctive features of twigs and buds—these are best seen in the dormant season when the foliage is gone.

Synonym of Desolation

In ordinary thinking leafless trees are a synonym of desolation. They appear as nude, forlorn, forsaken—shivering through the cold months as a beggar who thinks that winter is the necessary tribulation that preludes spring. I don't go along with this at all. Sympathy extended to the winter trees is surely misplaced. Winter trees are not mendicants. The last thing they do is to ask alms.

If I were to choose between leafy trees and leafless trees I would find the choice a hard one. I am sure that the winter trees enjoy themselves, not less than the trees of June. To my belief they are warlike, strenuous, conquering, magnificent. Summer is the trees' furlough, but winter is their campaign; one long battle both by day and night.

In winter the individuality of trees comes out. We cannot really get at a tree in summer. It is shut in of its own leaves and shadow. But when winter with icy sword blade hacks away the last tatter of summer finery and leaves the tree to stand naked as an Indian warrior, then does it proclaim itself.

Legitimate Strife

Winter trees mean legitimate strife. Not the contention of the snarly and ruculent, not the eye-for-eye of the ruffian who whips out sword and pines it at a word, but the battle method which character always needs; the battle method that makes both men and trees. Every winter tree is like a man on guard at a dangerous post. No wind goes by, however sedate and conciliatory, that the tree does not fling out naked arms of angry might and icy surly, "Halt! Who goes there?"

The mighty oak is perhaps the leading character in the drama of the winter woods. When winter winds charge down on the forest, then an oak tree laughs for joy and shoots out his hundred furious fists until the storm winds are abashed. Ulysses loved the battle of warring Trojans and stormy seas, but not more than the oak tree loves its conflict. Through all his huge trunk fury runs. He drinks wine pressed from the grapes of wrath. There is joy to the oak when storm winds blow.

Sycamore Most Beautiful

Of all the magnificent trees which grace our winter countryside I think the sycamore is perhaps the most beautiful. It is certainly the most picturesque, often leaning out, like Narcissus, to admire its own beauty in the quiet pools it loves. As a rule the sycamore grows only when water stays. Where the ravine goes dry in summer there you will not find the "pillared dusk of sounding sycamores".

Once its acquaintance is made the sycamore can never be forgotten. There is only this one native tree with such strange, crazy patchwork on its branches. The massive giants look from a distance as if splashed with whitewash to the farthest twigs. This speckled appearance is due to the plane tree's continual moulting. Even in winter flakes of the outer bark can be picked up from the snow beneath the trees.

Awesome Artistry

When slow mists make tree trunk and branch a sheet of ice the winter woods stand against the light armed in silver. The countryman sees the forest clad in "light as in a garment" and ponders again the awesome artistry of the hand within the shadow of the timberlands. Or when snows stream across the skies and smoke through the treetops, when the lanes of the woods are dusk at noon as the snow comes in silence and earth seems a memory, then the woods are bewildering.

And when bittersweet hangs its tangle of crimson berries and the shingle oaks hold their leaves and shiver night and day as with perpetual agony when the storms roar and are angry and the trees rush out with ecstasy of gladness to give battle to the winds—then the winter woods are glorious. The countryman watches them in all their sound and fury and thanks his God he lives where winter comes, and where deciduous trees are plentiful and where simple beauty gives way betimes to massive yet beautiful might.

The true countryman loves the battle and fury and anthems of the winter woods.

Using the theme, "United Through Books," the Junior department of the Free Public Library is observing Brotherhood Week.

Books are bridges to knowledge and understanding of boys and girls far away. The experiences of other children can be made real to our own by reading about them. The library recommends the following list of titles of interest to young people.

RUM BIRTH

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Legend credits British Admiral Edward Vernon with introducing "rum" to the English drink language back in 1745 when—while on a West Indies mission—he saved his men from scurvy by issuing them a regular daily ration of the local sugar cane drink. It was quickly dubbed "rum" in honor of the old sea dog, who was known to his tars as "Old Rummy" because in early England the phrase was a fond nickname for anything good or excellent.

Y.W.C.A. Board Observes Week Of Brotherhood

Board of directors of the Young Womens Christian Association held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night in Temple Israel. Afterwards they united with the Council of Jewish Women in a meeting held for the observance of Brotherhood month.

The Brotherhood goal is in direct line with standards of the YWCA as is seen by an excerpt from the Focus adopted at National YWCA convention last year. It reads, "that the life and activities of the YWCA be directed toward helping to build a world in which goodwill, justice, and freedom are the controlling forces." Controlling is the important word.

Mrs. Long Presides

Mrs. Roy A. Long, president, called the board meeting to order at 7 o'clock after which Mrs. Irvine A. Ralph, chairman of religious education, led the group in a worship service emphasizing the importance of brotherhood.

Mrs. Long welcomed Mrs. James Hill to the board. Mrs. Hill is the new chairman of the Committee of Management at the Branch YWCA.

The annual membership ingathering will be held as usual during the month of March, beginning with the opening meeting for all workers on Thursday, March 2. Report meetings will be held on the following four Thursdays immediately after scheduled classes which are scheduled for 10:30 o'clock on the same Thursdays.

To Have Seminar

The Orientation Seminar for all board members, committee members, club leaders and others who are interested will be Wednesday, March 1, 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Each one is to bring her own lunch, while salad and coffee will be served by the committee. Mrs. Paul F. Butz, Mrs. A. L. Hoffman and Mrs. William Cuthbert, a national board member who resides in Pittsburgh, asking New Castle to send representatives to Pittsburgh to help plan for an area meeting which will be held on Friday, March 24. Mrs. Harrison Elliott, national general secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Forrest Anderson, national president, will be speakers.

The occasion for the visit of both Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Anderson is the 75th jubilee anniversary of the Pittsburgh YWCA to be held on March 23. But many women thought the opportunity of hearing these national leaders should not be missed.

Committee Reports

Committee reports then followed on the agenda. Miss Marion Campbell, chairman of All-Association program, stated that classes in fancy cooking, sewing for beginners, making children's clothes, and the YWCA Players' club will all begin next week. Mrs. Paul F. Butz told of plans for a luncheon to be sponsored for the convention fund. Thursday, March 30, to raise money for the convention fund. Mrs. Hill reported that all committees at the branch have been organized. Mrs. Harold Glenn announced that the season at Camp East Brook will be from June 30 to July 29.

Recognition was given Mrs. Ethel Rentz Ferver for the fine work she did in tabulating statistical information on the entire membership for the report to national. This is a very laborious job.

The board also expressed appreciation for the help of Robert L. Meermans for his help in an advisory capacity with the purchase of a movie projector and for the three hours he spent when instructing the YWCA directors how to operate it. The board adopted a policy on the care and usage of the projector.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, March 23.

Art Program Given At Highland P.T.A.

Members of the Highland Parent-Teachers' Association met at the Highland school on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Mann conducted the business meeting. Reports were given of the organization meeting held at the Rose avenue school last week at which time a City Council of P.T.A. was formed.

David Gatrall, program chairman, introduced Miss Anne McClure, art teacher at the school, who was in charge of the evening's entertainment. Miss McClure showed kodachrome slides of the International Art Exchange, sponsored by the American Junior Red Cross. These slides are the work of pupils from all over the United States and many European countries.

Miss McClure then explained the work done by the students of the Highland school and displayed many of their art projects.

New State Head To Be Welcomed

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, recently elected head of Pennsylvania State College, will be welcomed to Pennsylvania Tuesday, February 28, at a dinner in Philadelphia. The dinner is the forty-first annual affair of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

Dr. Eisenhower, a brother of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, has headed Kansas State College since 1943. Before that he had served as vice consul of the United States, 1924 to 1926, and from 1926 to 1942 was with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In 1942 President Franklin D. Roosevelt, by executive order, created the War Relocation Authority and named Dr. Eisenhower director. He was also assistant to Elmer Davis, Office of War Information director.

After assuming the Kansas post, Dr. Eisenhower helped reorganize the Department of Agriculture. In 1947 he was named chairman of the United States Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

With his wealth of experience both in government and in heading a land grant college, Dr. Eisenhower was the unanimous choice for the presidency of Pennsylvania State College on January 21, 1950. A number of New Castle men will attend the dinner in Philadelphia on February 28.

Make Complaints On School Bus Uses

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Pennsylvania Bus Association complains that school buses sometimes provide free transportation outside the realm of "educational value" were scrutinized today by the Public Utility Commission.

The PUC conferred at Harrisburg with officials of the Association, State Police, Education and Revenue department over transportation of school groups on tours by school bus operators.

An Association bulletin claimed that the public school code authorizes board of school directors to provide free transportation under certain circumstances, but "many boards are interpreting these powers far beyond their legislative intent."

"If the trip is paid from class funds, Athletic Association or other extra-curricular funds—rather than from official district funds—the transportation would be unlawful unless authorized by a certificate of public convenience."

RELIEF TRUST
PHILADELPHIA.—(INS)—All is not well for 70-year-old Lantion Lewis of Philadelphia. In 1927, Lewis was left his mother's estate in trust and it is now worth $2,130. In addition to receiving about $10 monthly Lewis got $37 a month in old age assistance from the state. Now under an orphanage court ruling, Lewis must pay back the commonwealth the $1,018 relief and will not be re-eligible for assistance while he can be supported out of the trust's $1,112 balance.

The cost of publishing the discussions of the 81st Congress in the Congressional Record ran to six cents a word, or a total of nearly $2,000,000.

Livestock Value In State Lower

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The value of livestock on Pennsylvania farms on January 1 was 10 percent less than a year ago, the State Agriculture Department reported today.

The overall farm value of horses, cattle, mules, sheep and swine stood at $313,825,000 compared to the previous year's record of $349,992,000. Including chickens and turkeys, the inventory totalled $338,160,000 against last year's record of $401,564,000.

The downward trend continued through the year but there was a record number of cattle and chickens on January 1, 1950 while horses, mules, swine and sheep fell off to the lowest number in a century of record.

All livestock and poultry values per head trailed off from a year earlier, according to the department.

All livestock and poultry values per head trailed off from a year earlier, according to the department.

There were only 110,000 horses on Pennsylvania farms in 1949, or about 20,000 less than the previous year and far below the 1890 peak of 600,000.

Sheep and hogs fell off three and a half percent in 1949 from 1948 with a total of 921,000 head.

The chicken inventory registered at 26,837,000, the largest on record. One and two year old heifers for milk production represented a two percent increase while heifer calves intended for milk production went up six percent. These advances indicate a record milk production for 1950, the department reported.

RADIATION TALKS
KNOXVILLE.—(INS)—A one-day symposium on the relationship of atomic radiation to the sciences will be held at the University of Tennessee April 8 in connection with the installation of a campus chapter of Sigma Xi, national science fraternity. The symposium will include talks on radiation research in medicine, industry, biology, physics and chemistry, according to Dr. Alvin H. Nielsen, physics professor and president of the U-T Sigma Xi club.

OUTDOOR RAMBLES with N. R. CASILLO

Famous For Its Fish

Even ichthyologically, Lawrence county is famous. This is known by but a mere handful of the populace. However, ichthyologists (student of fish) consider this one of their best collecting grounds. Incidentally, one of the nation's great ichthyologists, Dr. E. C. Raney of Cornell was born and educated in New Castle. He has made a notable collection of the fishes of this area.

Its location about halfway between Lake Erie and the Ohio river basin accounts in part for the many species of fish found in the county. Since many of these little-known fish reach an adult length of but a few inches, they are commonly and incorrectly called "minnows," a term erroneously applied to the young of all fish.

There are fish in Hickory Creek alone, sporting such quaint names as line dace, redbell shiner, tessellated darter, log perch, johnny darter, miller's thumb, stone catfish and rainbow darter, this last being more brilliantly colored than many exotic tropical fishes. The total count for all species occurring in the district is pretty close to fifty. How many can you name?

Visitors in the Night

It's a wise householder who knows what goes on in the backyard after nightfall. For reasons more or less obvious, even the average New Castle back yard has nocturnal visitors that would surprise most residents.

Late one night I opened the door to let the dog out for his last assault on the evergreens. Contrary to his usual procedure, he dashed out and disappeared around a corner of the house. My call was futile.

When I caught up with him at the back porch he was sneezing violently. Almost at once an overpowering stench smote my nostrils. After making the dog fast in the garage, I ran into the house for a flashlight.

A moment later the bright beam disclosed an indignant mother skunk with decks cleared for action, striding across the lawn followed by five half-grown youngsters.

At this second intrusion she whirled to face me and began stamping the ground with her forefeet. Since that is skunk language for "Halt—or else," I forthwith made a hasty retreat.

If some day you find your lawn defaced by numerous little conical holes it indicates two things, (1) the skunks paid you a nocturnal visit, (2) your lawn is infested with grubs.

On one moonlit night I gazed on five cottontails gamboling on the turf, under the influence, no doubt, of moon magic. On most any night one or more may be seen gnawing at the rose bushes, new tulips or whatever is in season that appeals to their palates.

An occasional opossum may become a regular visitor if you don't securely fasten the garbage can lid. Then, there are rats, mice in variety, shrews and moles. I no longer wonder why the screech owl also makes regular nightly visits. The bite of the hellbender or so-called waterdog is not poisonous. When properly prepared this amphibian is said to be as tasty as frog legs. The animal is the largest North American salamander (wrongly called lizard) and is common in Lawrence county streams. Records show that the bison once ranged through most of western Pennsylvania. French Creek was originally called Le Boeuf Creek by the French because of the bison found all along the waterway. And, of course, there is Lake Le Boeuf in Erie county.

Santa Fe, N. M., is the second oldest town in the United States. It was settled by the Spaniards in 1605, St. Augustine, Fla., is the oldest.

The Dominion of Canada was established July 1, 1867.

'Paying For Things That We Never Get'

BISHOP AUCKLAND, Eng. Feb. 23.—(INS)—American-born Lady Astor complained today that under British Socialism she is paying for maternity benefits but getting nothing out of it.

She delighted an audience of housewives with biting "Astorisms" in brilliantly winding up a political campaign on behalf of the Conservatives in Durham County. She declared: "Under the National Health Service we are paying for things we never get—I am paying for maternity benefits."

Lady Astor revealed that a questioner asked whether Lord Astor was a millionaire. Never lacking for a quick answer, she replied: "I hope so. That is one of the things I married him for."

FASTER SKIS

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—(INS)—The same tough plastic used in army helmet liners during the war now promises to enable American ski champions to set new speed records. Tyler B. Davis, president of the Bancroft Racket company, said his firm is making a new "self-lubricating" ski with bottoms made of Micarta—the laminated plastic developed and produced by the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

The penknife originally was carried for the purpose of making and mending quill pens.

Former F.B.I. Undercover Agent Tells 'Red' Contacts

By WILLIAM THEIS
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A former FBI undercover agent told House investigators today that Communist party members have been under orders since 1948 to destroy their membership cards and other documents "for security reasons."

Matthew Cvetic, 41, who joined the Communist party and served as a government agent, also gave the House Un-American Activities committee the names of fellow party members with whom he was assigned to "carry out Communist party strategy" in the Pittsburgh area.

Cvetic, in response to a question by Rep. Moulder (D Mo.), declared: "Up until 1948, we were issued party cards. Since that time for security reasons, all documents, membership cards, and other identification were ordered destroyed."

Reaches Many Places
The witness testified that his "contacts" with Communist party officials reached to New York, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, and Johnstown, Pa.

Cvetic, testifying in public for the first time, recounted that he was asked to become a secret government operative in 1941 when he was working for the U. S. Employment Service in Pittsburgh. He rose to become a state and national Communist party official.

Cvetic said he first was "recruited" into the Communist party at a meeting in February, 1943, at Pittsburgh's Fifth Avenue high school. He said:

"From that time on I worked in an undercover capacity—until the present."

First Assignment
Cvetic said he was first assigned by the Reds to the "Tom Paine professional branch" of the party in Pittsburgh, later transferring from one neighborhood cell to another. These included, he said, the "North Side club," the East End club, and the Lawrenceville club. The "willing witness" said he helped organize a Red cell in the Crucible Steel company plant at Thirtieth street, Pittsburgh, and built this unit to a total of 22 members in 1945 and 1946.

Cvetic named Sidney Harwitz, then a senior interviewer at the U. S. Employment Service in Pittsburgh, as one of the first Communist party members he discovered after beginning his undercover work.

Others he named were Elizabeth G. Flynn, who he said "recruited me into the Communist party," and Andy Novak, who he said "signed my application."

Also Named
Also named as Reds by Cvetic were Dorothy Sloan, Dolly Gainer, who he said now is married to Pete Karpis, "also a member of the Communist party" and living in Washington County, Pa.

Organizer of the "professional branch," said Cvetic, was Lee Kogan, whom he also identified as organizer for the United Electrical Workers Union in Pittsburgh.

Cvetic named Steve Dedijer as a Communist party member and said Dedijer now is "with the Yugoslav delegation at the United Nations."

From a position of branch organizer in the Lawrenceville branch of the Communist party, Cvetic said he was assigned by Max Weiss, district Communist organizer, to "become active in the American Slav Congress."

He said he became a member of the executive board of the Slav Congress in Pittsburgh, later a member of the Nationality committee of the congress.

Many Contacts
Asked by Chief Committee Counsel Frank Tavenner if he had contacts in other areas while he served as chairman of the Communist party's "Slovenian commission," the witness replied: "Yes—I had Communist party contacts in New York, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Johnstown."

Martin Harrison, he said, was a fellow party member who worked for Carnegie-Illinois Steel company during Cvetic's work in the Lawrenceville club. Others included, he said, Louis Filetich and John Jenca.

Cvetic testified that another in the North Side club, Joe Mankin, was "responsible for Communist party concentration in the hotel and restaurant workers union."

Motor Fleet Boss School In March

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—The motor fleet boss will go so school next month to find out what his employees should know about his trucks.

Amos E. Neyhart, director of the Institute of Public Safety at the Pennsylvania State college, said today that the fifth annual course for Motor Vehicle Maintenance Supervisors will be held on the campus March 6 to 10.

Accident reduction and lowering of maintenance costs will be stressed throughout the course, which also will cover planning the maintenance system for large and small fleets, choosing the right bus or truck for the job, and the efficient use of shop space, equipment, and personnel.

Representatives of vehicles and parts manufacturers and officials of fleets that have attained fine records in their maintenance programs will be among the speakers on the program, Neyhart said.

Cyclotron At Princeton Is Fire Damaged

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 23.—(INS)—A stubborn fire on Wednesday badly damaged the 35-ton Cyclotron in the Palmer Physical Laboratory on the Princeton University campus.

University officials said that the Cyclotron, popularly known as an atom smasher, and the equipment nearby was valued at $400,000. The fire was discovered by a night guard, Joseph Krieger, who noticed smoke coming from the northeast corner of the laboratory basement. The building consists of four floors and basement.

The blaze broke out in 800 gallons of transformer oil in electric coils around the Cyclotron equipment. It flooded the structure with dense smoke, and forced cancellation of physics classes and laboratory sessions.

The Cyclotron is used in research on nuclear physics of light nuclei, in a project sponsored by the office of Naval research.

When Krieger discovered the fire at 1:30 a. m., he notified members of the physics department who called the University's fire fighters. Because it was an oil fire, the equipment was inadequate.

WATER PLEASE
CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—It may come as a blow to many a Kentucky colonel, but the best bourbon is made from Indiana corn. That's the word from one of the country's top experts—S. L. Fisher, vice president in charge of grain purchases for Schenley Distillers Inc., who reports that Indiana is the top supplier of quality corn, prime ingredient in the manufacture of bourbon.

Water Authorities Continue Progress

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Pennsylvania water authorities continued to make financial progress in 1948, with the number of customers, assets, revenues, and operating income showing increases.

This was reported by S. Cober Braucher, deputy secretary, Department of Internal Affairs, and Charles F. LeeDecker, of the Institute of Local Government at the Pennsylvania State college.

Pointing out that indebtedness was reduced and the equity of the authorities was increased in every instance, Braucher and LeeDecker predicted that 1949 would see water authority assets reach 110 millions and revenues top 10 millions.

During 1948, six new water authorities began operation in Pennsylvania, bringing the total number to 50. Revenues of the 50 authorities increased to 9.4 millions in 1948, an increase of 1.6 millions, or 20 per cent, over 1947. The 1948 revenues were higher than 1947 in all authorities except Borough township, Beaver county; Catawissa; Ephrata; and Millersville. Excluding the six new systems, revenues showed a 10 per cent increase.

It is estimated that more than three billion hard-driven unskilled laborers would be necessary to do the work now done by machines in the United States.

Biologists Study Breeding Cycles

BERKELEY, Calif.—(INS)—An attempt to solve the mystery of reproductive cycles in animals has been launched by the University of California at Berkeley.

Biologists have believed for years that animals vary their mating seasons with changes in the lengths of days. This theory, however, has been challenged by evidence in regions near the equator where the days have little difference in length.

Despite this fact, birds and mammals in these regions have rhythmic breeding cycles. If these were determined by the seasons, animals would be breeding all the time.

To solve the mysterious variation in life cycles, Dr. Allen H. Miller, director of the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, has arranged for a systematic study of specimens from equatorial regions.

He will attempt to establish the specific times at which certain animals are ready for mating and then attempt to correlate them with variations in environment and weather which may influence the mating cycles.

Double Combine Harvests Two Crops

SINTON, Tex.—Ollie Barrier, cotton farmer, says "It's simple," when people ask him how he operates a double-duty combine which serves as a two-crop machine.

Barrier invented the dual-purpose, four-row vehicle to harvest grain in the spring and strip cotton in the fall.

When he wants to harvest cotton he adds stripper teeth and a picker roller to the front of the machine. Barrier estimates the combine stripper can cover an acre of cotton and remove 90 per cent of the bolls from the stalks in 20 minutes.

Without the attachments, the combine serves as an ordinary wheat harvester.

Sharp Contrast In Berlin, Vienna Conditions Seen

Travelers From Berlin To Vienna Find Selves Almost In Different World On Arrival

VIENNA—(INS)—To go from Berlin to Vienna is to pass from one world into another.

The realization that—externally at least—there are more differences than similarities between the two becomes apparent the moment your plane sets down in Tulln.

Tulln is a town in the Soviet zone of Austria, in no way part of Vienna. In fact, it is some 20 miles from Tulln to the center of the Austrian capital and planes that land at Tulln as well as the buses that connect the airport to the metropolis do so by express permission of the Russians.

The situation that the Viennese would be placed in under blockade conditions is starkly obvious. The potential for an airlift along Berlin lines is just non-existent. The one airfield in the American sector of Vienna is suitable for small planes.

Ruins Noticeably Absent
A physical comparison of the cities is equally jarring. Here the skyline is not a jagged crumbling grotesque of architecture. The rubble blind-faced buildings that stretch block on end in Berlin are exceptions rather than the rule in Vienna.

Row of plate-glassed shops, well-stocked and thriving comes as a surprise to the newly-arrived. And street lights—standard in all European capitals except for west Berlin today—at first seem out of place and unfamiliar.

Not only are there no physical barriers dividing the city, there are no sector markings except in the American portion of the city and the traveler passes from one sector to another without the benefit or inconvenience of checks and signposts.

The chief point of similarity of course is the presence of Russian, French, Americans and British in a single city under multi-power control in the Russian zone of an occupied country. But even in that instance, the four flags fly together rather than three flags on one side and the fourth on the other.

Also unique are the international Jeep patrols of soldiers of the four countries riding in a single vehicle, marked with the national emblems of each.

The White House grounds cover 17 acres within the surrounding fence.

The pyramids of Egypt date from about 3,000 to 1,800 B. C.

Cvetic Still Telling About Communists

By WILLIAM THEIS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The House un-American Activities committee hears final testimony of a former FBI undercover agent today on the "theory and practice" of Communist party operators in western Pennsylvania.

Matthew Cvetic, 41, the Pittsburgh insurance man whose testimony of seven years as a Communist party member exposed details of Red activities, said he is ready to sum up his story.

Cvetic indicated he has few if any more names of Communist party members to give the House investigators. In two days of testimony he has named upwards of 150 persons as having Red connections in the Pittsburgh area.

Should Be Subpoenaed

Meanwhile, Rep. Walter (D) Pa., suggested that leaders of the Labor Youth league, which Cvetic cited as a "Communist-front" organization, should be subpoenaed to testify before the committee.

Walter, a committee member, declared that Congress and the country "should know the extent to which the Communist party is infiltrating into the youth of America." Cvetic named Harold Orzick as the league's leader.

The witness said that he will place in the record numerous quotations of Steve Nelson, Communist party organizer in western Pennsylvania, in final support of his case-history.

Cvetic told the committee that Communists in 1946 began laying the groundwork for a "people's party" and ultimately made the progressive party of Henry Wallace their political "front" group.

He testified that in late 1947 he and a fellow Communist party member, George Wuchinich, conferred with Wallace and "Beany" Baldwin (C. B. Baldwin, later Wallace's campaign manager) at a Pittsburgh hotel.

Cvetic said Wallace and Baldwin asked them how many votes they could "deliver" for the new, yet unformed Progressive party as officials of the American Slav Congress. The witness said he assumed the two Progressive party leaders were "men of intelligence and knew" that he and Wuchinich were Communist party members.

(Baldwin in Chicago said that the Progressive party had never believed in the loyalty checking program and therefore did not check the loyalty of persons its leaders talked to.)

Cvetic estimated that western Pennsylvania now has about 550 Communist party members and that all are members of the Progressive party.

He gave the committee names of alleged Communist party members who he said worked to carry the "party line" into steel, electrical and coal unions in the industrial Pittsburgh area.

Gen. Omar Bradley Will Make Report On Mass Weapons

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Gen. Omar Bradley goes to Capitol Hill today to report on the possible types of mass-destruction weapons an enemy might use against United States and her big cities.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was called to a closed-door meeting of the congressional atomic committee, which is opening a study of how to protect city civilian populations in event of an atomic-hydrogen Pearl Harbor.

Reserve Officers To Meet Tonight

An evening of entertainment has been arranged and refreshments will be served. All former Army, Navy and Marine officers, whether they are members of Reserves or not, are invited to attend.

OPPOSE BONUS

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—A survey conducted by the Lantern, Ohio State university daily student publication showed a small majority of the student veterans is opposed to payment of a federal World War II bonus. Other vets studying under the G. I. Bill of Rights believe a bonus should be paid, but that it should be postponed. Only a small minority believes in payment of a bonus now.

Drive Slow—Children Move Fast!

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Growing-Up Growing Pains.

Most of us want our children to be able to stand on their own feet. And most of us want these same children to be polite and amiable. Unfortunately, the two things don't always go together. Here are a couple of examples.

When our twin girls were around eight years of age, they were quite timid and retiring. When other children told them to do things, they usually complied. This sort of behavior was so marked that we became concerned and tried in various ways to encourage them to stand on their own feet. One day they came home happy and proud, saying, "When the other kids said something to us today, we said: 'So what!'"

Nine-year-old Lester was a painfully polite little boy. In every situation, including his after-school recreation club, he would do exactly as he was told, saying, "Yes, sir," and "No, sir." Indeed he was the envy of all the other boys' mothers. The club leader finally persuaded Lester's parents that this wasn't very boylike and proposed that he be encouraged to be less of a "little gentleman." But it was hard to take when Lester began to talk back, but not only other children but even grownups and otherwise show aggressive behavior.

There's very likely to be an unpleasant stage when children who have been too quiet and amenable start to act more naturally. But this stage will pass. It's a part of the growing pains of growing up of learning to stand on one's own feet.

Coal Price Reported Higher At Some Mines

That old maxim about making hay while the sun shines has been adopted by some of the owners of small coal mines and strip operations apparently.

The retail price of coal has jumped as much as two dollars per ton in the past ten days.

Asked for a reason one coal trucker said he was forced to pay up to two dollars additional per ton at the mines and he was lucky to get it at that price.

ATOMIC MUSIC
TOKYO.—(INS)—A Japanese composer is seeking to translate into music the movement of mesons, an atomic component first suggested by Nobel Prize winner

'U.S. Seeking To Prevent Horror Of Another War'

By FELIX COTTEN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 23.—President Truman said Wednesday afternoon that free nations of the world stand prepared to resist Communist aggression but are doing everything possible to prevent "the horror of another war."

The president lashed out at the "false ideals and tyranny" of Communism in a George Washington Day address dedicating a statue of the first president of the United States.

Fundamentally Same Task

Speaking at the George Washington National Masonic Memorial in Alexandria, Mr. Truman said that the nation's task today is fundamentally the same as that faced by Washington—"to make democracy work and defend it from its enemies."

The president said:

"He knew, too, that they (Democratic institutions) had to be defended—that there were times when the use of force to defend democracy could not be avoided."

"The task of Americans today is fundamentally the same as it was in Washington's time. We, too, must make democracy work and we must defend it against its enemies."

Modern Tyranny

The Chief Executive said the most aggressive of these enemies today is Communism which he labeled "a modern tyranny far worse than that of any ancient empire." Mr. Truman said:

"Freedom cannot grow and expand unless it is protected against the armed imperialism of those who would destroy it. The free nations, therefore, must maintain military force as a defensive measure."

"While the free nations stand prepared to resist aggression, they are doing their utmost to find peaceful means for settling international disputes. They know that another great war could destroy victor and vanquished alike."

"Consequently, we in the United States are doing and will continue to do all that lies within our power to prevent the horror of another war. We are working for the reduction of armaments and the control of weapons of mass destruction."

The President said the United States will continue to work through the United Nations for adoption of the Baruch plan of atomic control by a system of world-wide inspection.

He said continuance of the Euro-Atlantic part of the nation's program for peace as the reciprocal trade agreements program to increase world trade and prosperity.

Mr. Truman also declared that pean recovery program is an essential part of the effort of free nations to work in unity and concerted action for peace. He said:

"We shall continue to work with the other free nations associated with us in the common defense—for our defense is theirs and their defense is ours."

"The united defense of these nations is a powerful deterrent to aggression, and it will become more powerful as time goes by."

Mr. Truman said the various programs and plans for international action which the government is now supporting "are the practical way to move forward to peace."

House Rejects Move To Send F. E. P. C. Bill Back To Committee

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The House today rejected an attempt to send back to committee the "toothless" fair employment practices bill tentatively approved early this morning.

It turned down, 239 to 177, a motion by Rep. Breen (R) Ohio, to send the measure back to the Labor committee.

Frank Pishoneri At Naval School

Frank Vincent Pishoneri, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Pishoneri of 321 Third street, Ellwood City, is attending the Naval School of Music in Washington, D. C.

Pishoneri, who entered the Navy September 29, 1949, received his recruit training at the naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Before entering the Navy he attended Lincoln high school.

Injuries Fatal To Lavern Roach

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Lavern Roach, Plainview, Tex., middleweight, died in a New York hospital shortly after one o'clock p.m. (EST) today from injuries suffered in a fight against George Small of Brooklyn last night.

An average man has a vocabulary of 7,000 to 10,000 words.

TWIN-JET PLANE EXPLODES; FIRES HOUSE

EL SEGUNDO, CALIF.—Child's high-chair, scorched and torn, stands mutely beside house that was partially gutted by flames Wednesday when an experimental twin-jet, XF-89, exploded in mid-air, a portion striking this house. Another section of the plane struck a nearby oil storage tank, setting it afire. Pilot parachuted to safety, but the flight engineer was killed. No residents of the house were hurt.

END OF AN ERA

Tuesday night's loss to Ellwood by the New Castle High basketball team for the second time this year marked the end of an era—or did it?

Coach George "Gig" Thomas has informed the school board that he will not be interested in the coaching job next year. A new man for the position will probably be named within the next two months.

According to the WPIAL constitution, a scholastic athletic coach must also be a teacher regularly certified by the State Department of Public Instruction. These teachers shall be employed in a full-time teaching capacity by the school district in which they are employed. Hence, the new coach will probably be hired in the next couple of months so that he can also be placed in the school system to teach the subjects for which he is qualified.

Hardly a word of personal criticism is in order for Gig. He assumed a very tough job under trying conditions. During his two years as head basketball coach he gave his best. Gig has stated publicly that he was not too well qualified as a head basketball coach in the toughest section of the toughest district in the state. Many people do not know that Mr. Thomas was asked to take the job by several school board members. His acceptance was not for the purpose of gaining additional remuneration but was a favor for those who pleaded with him to accept it.

His handling and development of boys in character and personality is beyond reproach. However, the won and lost record and caliber of his teams left a lot to be desired.

We are in no position to recommend a particular person for the position and probably no one will ask us.

However, there are certain qualifications that the new basketball coach should have and we do not hesitate to pass these along.

First and foremost, he should be an alert, keen student of the game of basketball, preferably with experience and proven talent. The new coach will need some crusading tendencies as he will be stepping into a basketball situation that is somewhat stagnant but at the same time is tense with undercover forces pulling in several different directions.

The crusading technique will also be needed to encourage all possible talent to try out for the team. It is well known around senior high school that many outstanding players from the YMCA and City Recreation Leagues have not bothered to go out for the high school varsity.

The coach must have patience. New Castle now has several

Chicago Pastor To Have Sky Chapel

Seven-Year Dream Of Methodist Minister To Be Fulfilled With Building Of Parsonage

CHICAGO—(INS)—Dr. Charles R. Goff, pastor of Chicago's First Methodist church, knows there is little chance of finding a mountain hideaway in the shadow of the Lake Michigan shore—but he's going to have his chapel in the sky anyway.

A seven-year dream soon will become a reality when work is started on Dr. Goff's sanctuary and parsonage, 383 feet above Chicago's hurried sidewalks.

Dr. Goff began planning his tiny chapel in 1942 when he assumed the ministry of the First Methodist church. He decided there was valuable space unused in the tower of the Chicago Temple.

Now architects are making final plans, and within a month, work is expected to start on the minister's tiny chapel and living quarters. Church officials say they will cost $65,000.

World's Highest Chapel

The 14 by 22 foot sanctuary will be finished just below the temple spire, topped by a cross 546 feet above street level. The cross is the world's highest.

Living quarters for the pastor will be constructed just below the world's highest chapel. The apartment will be in two floors, the uppermost housing two bedrooms and baths, the lower consisting of a living room, dining room and kitchen.

The temple will be hushed in the sky-high quarters and chapel by special sound-proofing materials and the double window panes. A special elevator will carry guests from the temple building's 22nd floor to the simulated mountain retreat.

Dr. Goff and his guests know they won't escape the problems of everyday life in their sky scraper tower—but they may get a clearer view of them, away from the bustling world of Chicago's streets.

Expect Census To Reveal 500 Indians In This State

By ED HAUCK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Indians and their descendants will number more than 500 in Pennsylvania when the federal census bureau counts noses this year.

The biggest concentration embraces more than 200 Senecas of the Cornplanter tribe living on a 1,500-acre reservation in Warren county. Only about 50 remain in the tribal haunts throughout the year. The rest join medicine shows, circuses and take movie roles to supplement their income. One is usually chosen from this tribe to represent the Indian at various dedications in the Commonwealth.

Just north of Harrisburg within the past ten years a small group has settled in a part of the Blue Ridge mountains. There are others scattered through Allegheny, Bradford and Bucks counties.

Tough Job For Enumerators

The census bureau will have a tough job trying to determine who is and who isn't an Indian because of the intermarriage down the years. But Col. Henry W. Shoemaker, of the state historical and museum commission, estimates a little more than 500 persons will tell the pollsters they are Indians. Actually full-blooded Indians are rare.

The census bureau has already been advised by the bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institute in Philadelphia where to look for the Indians.

Not all the Indians went west when the white man took over their territory. Many of them stayed on in their native state and took to farming. Though never fully absorbed by their conquerors, the Redmen assumed the mode of life and dress of white men.

Part of the increase in Indian population in the state since the last census is due to the war. Many left western reservations and came to the heavy industrial cities of Pennsylvania to work in war plants. After the war they never returned home.

Settled Down In Cities

Many Indian war veterans married and settled down in cities where they practically lose their separate identity.

The state has not singled out Indians for any special concessions. Their only freedom is the right to hunt and fish during any season of the year without license or regard to game limits.

Through the intercession of ex-Gov. George H. Earle the Indians in the Warren County Reservation were able to secure W.P.A. funds to have a road built the length of the grounds. It's of concrete construction and measures about a mile and a half. Since it was built in 1936, it is used very little.

The reservation Indians are unfettered by taxes if they remain there. Here and there, like their western brothers, a few of the Indians struck oil on their western Pennsylvania land. But most of them just drift off the land set apart for them.

There is one Pennsylvania governor numbered among the Braves of the cornplanter tribe. In 1940, in his second year as governor, Arthur H. James was taken into the tribe as an honorary chief in a festive and colorful ceremony. He was given the tongue-twisting Indian name, O-Dahn-Goh which means "Sunshine" in English. James dedicated the W.P.A. road that was completed early in his administration.

Pennsylvania maintains a public school on the reservation that is attended almost entirely by the Indian children. The women teaching there has been active in Indian work for many years.

WHO SUGGESTS SITTING OUT DANCE?

Question: Is it rude for a man to suggest to his partner that they sit down when he feels that he has danced sufficiently and the orchestra continues playing?

Answer: This suggestion should come from the woman and not her partner. It is always the privilege of the woman and not the man to complain of fatigue and suggest "sitting out" the rest of the dance. Her partner should continue until either she or the music stops, unless, of course, he is ill and cannot go on.

Question: Is it permissible to interrupt a conversation to introduce a newcomer? If a story which you have previously heard is being told, is it permissible to break in with: "Oh, I heard that before?"

Answer: (1) No. Wait until there is a lull in the conversation. (2) No. Listen as if it were the first time you heard it. Never, never say "Oh, that's old, I heard it before." Nothing could be more rude.

Question: When it is necessary to remove a bone or pit from one's mouth, how is it done? Should food, in the mouth too hot to chew, be removed?

Answer: (1) Either with the fork or spoon (whichever you are using) or with the fingers. The bone or pit should be placed on the side of the plate. (2) Immediately take a swallow of cold water. Food once taken into the mouth should never be taken out.

Question: What is proper to serve at an afternoon tea? Is a salad permissible?

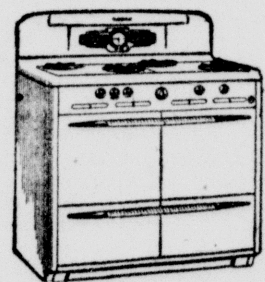

Answer: No. Salads are not properly served at tea. If the tea is small, tea, sandwiches, hot breads and cakes will suffice. At larger teas, bouillon, chocolate and cake are sometimes served as well as sandwiches and tea. A greater amount of food would constitute a reception.

CORINTH RECEIVES GOSPEL FROM PAUL

Ancient Corinth.

"Be not afraid to speak . . . for I am with thee."—Acts 18:9-10.

(Scripture—Acts 15:36-18:22; I Corinthians 5:9-6:20; II Corinthians 6:11-7:1.)

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Today we continue Paul's missionary journeys. Consult the map to see the many miles he traveled with his companions to bring the Gospel of Christ to Jew and Gentile alike.

The distances seem small, measured by modern means of transportation, but they required weary hours to travel in the time of Paul and his comrades.

Paul and Barnabas were in Antioch after going to Jerusalem to make a report of their activities. Paul suggested to Barnabas that they visit again the brethren in every city where they had preached the word of the Lord. Barnabas evidently agreed, but he was determined to take John Mark with them. Paul said no.

You remember John Mark had deserted them on one of their former expeditions. Luke says, "the contention was so sharp between them that they departed asunder one from the other." The two apostles almost quarreled, we infer, and parted—Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus, and Paul went the other way, through Syria and Cilicia, taking Silas, a prominent member of the Antioch church.

Paul and Barnabas never worked together again, which is sad, because Barnabas had introduced Paul to the church—and sponsored him when the leaders were inclined to mistrust him.

The lesson is so long and so filled with exciting incidents, that we must be brief in recounting each one in order to have space for the temperance lesson Paul preaches to use in Corinthians.

In the 16th chapter of Acts we are introduced to a new and very important character in Paul's life. His name was Timotheus, son of a Jewess and a Greek. Two of Paul's last epistles written just before his death in Nero's persecutions, were addressed to him.

Now a strange thing happened to Paul. The Holy Ghost forbade him to go to certain places. The reason? God had planned another field in which He wished him to work. As Paul lay in his bed, a vision appeared to him. It was that of a man who prayed Paul, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us."

Paul knew it was the Lord had called him. At the chief Macedonian city, Philippi, the three—Paul, Silas and Timothy—met Lydia, a seller of purple cloth, who was baptized with all her household and who insisted that they accept her hospitality.

At Thessalonica Paul preached in the synagogue, and reasoned with the elders. Many believed, but those that believed not stirred up evil and rough men and they tried to find the missionaries, accusing them of "turning the world upside down."

The believers sent Paul and his comrades away, and they went to Berea, where they were received "with all readiness of mind," and the people "searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so."

With Paul's experience in Athens we must not tarry, merely to say that the Athenians were won't to gather to discuss all things new to them, and Paul told them of "the unknown God" to whom they had raised an altar.

"After these things Paul departed from Athens and came to Corinth." With the exception of Antioch in Syria, Corinth probably had the largest population of any city Paul had so far visited. It was a Roman city, and had the reputation of being a wicked place. Here Paul taught and preached every sabbath in the synagogue. Here Silas and Timothy joined him, and when the Jews opposed Paul and blasphemed, he departed from them and took up residence with Justus, a believer. Paul stayed in Corinth a year and a half and made many converts, both Jews and Gentiles.

Paul was again arrested here, but the deputy, Gallio, refused to listen to his enemies and sent them packing, which verified the words of God to Paul when he went to Corinth: "Be not afraid, but speak . . . for I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee."

Writing later to these same Corinthians, Paul warned them against idolaters, extortioners, those who were covetous; against drunkards and those who were impure in their lives. Living good, moral and temperate lives, God would be a father to them. He promised, and they should be His sons and daughters.

Rotary Observing Its Anniversary

Commemorating the 45th anniversary of the founding of Rotary International, Rotary clubs throughout the world, are making special observance of the event this week.

Tracing the growth of Rotary, Blair Alverson, president of the New Castle Club, stated that the first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago, Ill., on February 23, 1905, by Paul H. Harris, a young lawyer. It was called Rotary Club because of its practice of rotating the meetings in the offices of the members. Today, it embraces 7,000 clubs in 82 countries, with a membership of 334,000 members.

In connection with the anniversary, a special broadcast will be given over WKST on Thursday evening, February 23, at 7:15 p.m., and on Saturday, February 25, NBC will salute Rotary with a special program, "World Assignment," at 4:30 p. m.

More Homes* Can Be Served With NATURAL GAS in 1950 . . . Because The Columbia Gas System in 1949 . . .

Reached the primary objectives of a $168,000,000 expansion program—an adequate gas supply; adequate underground storage capacity and facilities adequate to supply more people with more natural gas.

In 1949 the System established new highs in gas sales, in the volume of gas it could deliver in a single day; in Southwest gas contracts and in total reserves for the future.

Columbia opened new gas frontiers, drilling the first producing well in Maryland. It built the "Toughest Inch," a 26-inch transmission line through the West Virginia mountains.

*And the System contracted with other public utilities to supply the gas required for their 600,000 customers.

As demand continues to increase, further expansion is inevitable. For, as a public utility, Columbia Gas System has the responsibility and the legal duty to provide the service the public's needs require.

*Utilities serving 23 cities sought wholesale deliveries from Columbia. Applications to service Baltimore, Md., Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Beacon, Kingston, N. Y., Charlottesville, Va., and Hagerstown, Md., have been approved. Others awaited FPC approval as of Feb. 10, 1950. Full details are in the Annual Report of The Columbia Gas System, Inc., 120 East 41st Street, New York 17, N. Y.—available on request.

Over Six And Half Billions Paid In Year

V.A. Makes Report On Benefits To Veterans In 1949

By EDWIN HOFFMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The veterans administration reported that more than six and one-half billion dollars were paid in government benefits to 19 million ex-GIs in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1949.

The figure which also includes benefit payments to dependents or beneficiaries of veterans was contained in the VA's annual report to Congress.

In a state-by-state breakdown of the $6,552,032,282 in VA expenditures, the report showed that New York vets received the largest slice—nearly 600 million dollars. Veterans of California, Pennsylvania, Texas and Illinois received the next largest amounts in that order.

Largest Payments

Of the total expenditures made by VA during the year, the largest amount—$1,891,283,111—was dish- ed out in the form of compensation, pension payments or retirement pay. The report's other high- lights during 1949:

1. Vets in training or education under the GI Bill of Rights re- ceived $1,865,804,493 in subsistence allowance. In addition, VA paid schools $834,379,091 for tuition, fees and equipment to educate or train the GI Bill students.

2. Compensation or pension was paid to approximately three mil- lion veterans or dependents of de- ceased veterans for World War II, World War I, the Spanish-Ameri- can war, the Indian wars, the Civil war and the Mexican entangle- ment.

3. Unemployment allowances un- der the same act totaled $66,060,357.

4. Death claims for National Service Life Insurance resulted in an expenditure of $310,855,814.

5. Subsistence payments to World War II disabled vets in edu- cation or training under public law, 16, the vocational rehabilita- tion act, totaled $262,196,010.

6. The cost of providing medical care, hospitalization and drugs for eligible vets during the year, plus the cost of administering the entire VA organization of some 700 of- fices and field stations aggregated $939,594,945.

'Moral Duty' To Provide For Needs Of One's Family

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.— (INS)—Judge Vincent A. Carroll ruled today that it is not charity, but a "moral duty" to provide for the needs and welfare of members of one's own family.

The jurist delivered his findings in an opinion refusing to grant a non-profit corporation charter to a family organization established "for charitable purposes."

Said Judge Carroll: "The form of a charitable founda- tion cannot be twisted into a method of obtaining financial bene- fits for its members, even in times of need or distress.

"Providing for the needs or wel- fare of members of one's own fam- ily when they are in distress is not an act of charity.

"Contributions for such a pur- pose are at all times a moral duty and may even become a legal obli- gation enforceable through the pro- cesses of our laws."

SENIOR GIRL SCOUT TROOP DEDICATES NEW CLUB ROOMS

Girl Scout Senior Troop 27, opened their new club rooms to the public on Wednesday evening. In the top photo, troop leader Miss Mary Lou Fulkerson, awaits a piece of cake as the assistant leader, Mary Elizabeth Shaddick cuts the cake. The picture was taken in the kitchenette of the club rooms. In the lower photo can be seen the main assembly room, as the troop members hold a pre-open house meeting. They are: (left to right) Maxine Iva Taylor, Ruth Ann Heaton, Barbara Jayne Cartwright, Jeannette Johnson, Ann McKenzie, Miss Shaddick, Miss Fulkerson, Mary Jane Bayuk, Virginia Johnson, Margaret Glassel and Gayle Anderson. The clubrooms are located on the sub-floor of a store at 16 North Mercer street.

Senior Girl Scout troop 27 formally dedicated its new club rooms on North Mercer street Wednesday evening with an "open house" gathering and housewarm- ing.

The troop is the first senior (GI) Scout troop in the city to have regularly furnished club rooms. The group of girls met with their leaders, Mary Lou Fulkerson and Mary Elizabeth Shaddick, have worked diligently for the past two months cleaning and painting for the formal opening.

The troop itself is one year old this month, and the celebration was also a birthday party.

Regular meetings, as well as so- cial events, will be held in the club rooms. The girls already have a small library and a powder room, in addition to the main meeting room. This program includes the regular aims of the Girl Scout movement. In addition these girls of the high school age group are doing extra work designed to teach them to be social leaders and good hostesses.

More than 50 people attended the reception and enjoyed the light repast of fruit punch, cakes and cookies from a beautifully appointed candle-lit table.

Officers of the troop are Max- ine Taylor, Gayle Anderson and Barbara Cartwright.

There will also be a short busi- ness meeting when reports will be given by the housing survey com- mittee. The chairman of the political action committee will also have an announcement.

Mrs. Mattie Weber and Mrs. Dorothy Catlin are the committee in charge of program arrange- ments.

WRONG BLAME

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(INS)—Although all foxes and coyotes get the blame for preying on man's livestock, only a few unscrupulous members of both species are responsible, according to Frank Sampson, who heads the Conserva- tion commission's predator con- trol program. Sampson points out the predators usually pick upon the food supply that is most avail- able in a certain area. Thus an occasional fox or coyote may find a farmer's chickens, lambs, or pigs a handy meal ticket and turn out- law. But the chief food of coyotes and foxes are rabbits, mice and other harmful rodents, and various other small wild animals and vege- tation.

Criticism Of G.O.P. Chairman

Presence At Duff Meetings Is Cited

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Republican state chairman has been criticized for being on hand for all of the sessions in which leaders allied with Governor Duff put a slate into the field for the May 16 primary election. Taylor points out he attended all meetings as Dauphin County chairman and not as the head of the state committee. . . . The criticism was voiced by men aligned with leaders supporting Jay Cooke for governor. . . . Taylor was spokesman for the county leaders once. . . . After the other meetings the spokesmen were Highways Secretary Ray F. Smock and Northampton County Chairman Kenneth Kressler. . . . Incidentally, there is some sentiment among pro-Duff leaders to back Kressler as the next state chairman. . . . The state committee will re-organize in June with committeemen elected at the primary.

The 41st annual dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association at Philadelphia, February 23 may have a surprise guest, according to Republicans planning to attend the affair. He may be retired General Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University and brother of Pennsylvania State College president-elect Milton S. Eisenhower who will be the principal speaker at the banquet. . . . The annual PMA dinner usually attracts a cross-section of Republican leaders from throughout Pennsylvania. . . . The PMA, which has branches in each of the 67 counties, is headed by GOP National Committeeman G. Mason Olett, of Wellsboro. . . . He succeeded former U. S. Sen. Joseph Ridgway Grundy, of Bristol.

A little-known service in the State Commerce department is the clipping bureau headed by Mary E. McGrath, of Philadelphia. . . . Aided by a staff of eight quick-eyed girls, Miss McGrath scans 498 papers printed each week. . . . The clips on state government affairs reported by wire services and individual newsmen from the capitol are either retained by the department for reference or sent to the proper state agencies. . . . Several receive their clips daily while others get them at the end of each week. . . . Into the bureau each week pour 190 daily papers, 295 weeklies and 13 Sunday newspapers. . . . Only a few come from outside the state. . . . Miss McGrath worked on the old Philadelphia North American and later the Philadelphia Inquirer. . . . She once served as publicity chief of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women. . . . February 27 will mark her 11th year on the job in the bureau.

It is conceded among politicians in both Republican and Democratic camps that the party winning the governor ship will carry a majority of the 208 seats at stake in the November 7 general election. . . . Republicans have controlled the Senate since 1939. . . . The GOP held the House during the 1939 regular session and the 1940 special meeting but lost control for the 1941 session. . . . The split House and Senate hamstringing cause of the conflict between the all but necessary legislation be-houses. . . . Twenty-five seats will be up for balloting in the Senate next fall but the majority represent districts ordinarily Republican even in Democratic years. . . . Thus it is extremely doubtful whether the Democrats can win the Senate short of the kind of sweep which put them in control of both houses for the 1935 and 1937 sessions.

He has been night-clubbing only one time since 1945. He had a date with Marjorie Main that night and escorted her to Ciro's. Florida Governor To Crack Down On Illegal Gambling

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 23.—(INS)—Florida Gov. Fuller Warren has ordered a state-wide crackdown on illegal gambling and called on all law enforcement officers to "use the full power of your office" in the campaign. The governor addressed 295 letters to various authorities last night, directing them "to enforce strictly all laws, particularly the laws against gambling." His action followed a series of charges by several Florida newspapers and the greater Miami crime commission that big northern racket bosses were running "wide-open" gambling casinos in the state.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—Perry Kilbride is a normal fellow with normal likes and dislikes, normal habits and a normal approach to life in general.

And because he is so confounded normal, Hollywood has dubbed him one of its most eccentric citizens.

The 62-year-old actor philosophized today:

"In Hollywood, the average man is an incurable screwball. If a guy doesn't wear a trick suit, drive a truck or lead a crazy life, then he is considered a psycho-something."

Just About Gives Up

Kilbride, currently sharing honors with Marjorie Main in "Ma and Pa Kettle Back Home," at Universal-International, said that long ago he gave up the struggle to convince Hollywood of his normalcy.

The bony-beaked, nasal-voiced, 125-pounder with the sleepy eyes declared:

"You see, son, I don't drive a car. So sometimes I like to ride a street car to the studio. Immediately, by riding the street car, I am certified by Hollywood as a candidate for a straitjacket."

Kilbride also happens to get a big boot out of window-shopping.

"Will you tell me what's so crazy about window shopping?" He asked. "Yet, every time I take a stroll down Hollywood boulevard people stare and say: 'Look at the movie star walking along the boulevard. He must be nuts!'"

Just Acts Natural

If all this does not convince you that Percy Kilbride is a nominee for a laughing academy, according to Hollywood standards, then consider these qualifications:

Kilbride regular gets eight hours sleep each night. (So movie-town yelps: "What a character!")

He wears ties with his shirts. His pants invariably match the mark: "What, no swimming pool? Jeepers, what a screwball!")

And that, pal, is the sad story of Percy Kilbride, the movie-star who is so outrageously normal that he has become an A-1 eccentric.

Tests prove that often when a person is in low spirits he imagines he has a cold.

John and Samuel Adams of Revolutionary fame were second cousins.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

GIVING AWAY 34 POUNDS to Abel Cestac, 223½ pound Argentinian, Elkins Brothers, 189½, of New Castle, dropped a 10-round decision to the South American in a Baltimore ring. . . Glenn Shaffer, corporal with the Alaska command, took a decision from John Kausarich, Centerville, Ia., in a Fort Bragg, N. N., All-Army boxing tournament. . . Billy (The Belter) Pozza will battle Johnny Clements, Dayton; Frankie Moran will take on Dave Pinto, Canton, and George Smith will exchange swings with Chuck Davis, Johnstown, in three of five bouts at Ellwood City, March 3. . . Decision of the Lawrence County Sportsman's association to spend probably $1,000, for fish, implies there'll be better fishing in county streams. . . Trapping of 465 rabbits by Ray and Jim Bailes is a mark to be shot at, and liberation of these, plus 1,072 other bunnies trapped in the city, also means better hunting unless predators and autos kill 'em off. . . Every evening the sky is darkened in Mt. Jackson district by a flock of crows en route to a rookery. . . Twenty-two members of the Ellwood City high school squad have been awarded letters. . . Proposals have been made to both Game and Fish Commissions to reduce their districts from eight, to six. . . Trout will be stocked in Crawford county streams, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. . . No date as yet has been set for stocking Lawrence county streams. . . No one yet knows who will replace "Rosy" White who has tendered his resignation as fish warden.

New officers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen, named last week at Harrisburg, follows: Dale Furst, Williamport, president; Joe Barkley, Punxsutawney, first vice-president, and Raymond Armstrong, Randolph township, Crawford county, second vice president. The Federation passed resolutions calling for an open deer season, on both antler and antlerless species; approval of moves of the Allegheny County Sportsmen's league in trying to avert Clarion river pollution through a court injunction; urging salaries of fish wardens be raised to the level of game protectors, and request the Game Commission to conduct an exchange of small game, preferably rabbits, with other boundary states, on an experimental basis. . . C. A. French, fish commissioner, said at Harrisburg, a bill probably will be introduced in the next legislature to give the commission power to use poison in scientific fish eradication. He explained many lakes and ponds are over-populated with certain species that can be reduced by poison. However, the poison would be used only where other controls failed, and would be followed by re-stocking with desired species. . . Fewer carp would satisfy fishermen hereabouts. . . Homer Wagner, the "Flying Dutchman" of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will enjoy his seventy-sixth birthday, Friday. He was paid $35, in 1895, for playing with Steubenville. Wagner has been here often, either to address a local club or as a Pirate scout. His last appearance in this district was at a baseball banquet held in Wampum.

Jack Burke, White Plains, N. Y., took the Harlingen, Tex., Rio Grande open with a 72-hole score of 284. . . Your Host ($240) won the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby by two and a half lengths with Sturdy One, second, and Great Circle, third. . . Carl Stone of the Shanahan Catholic Club, New York, beat the FBI man, Fred Witt, by eight yards to take the AAU Indoor three-mile championship in 13:58.2. . . Hjalmar Anderson of Norway captured the World Speed Skating championship at Eskilstuna, Sweden. John Werkel of Minneapolis, finished second. . . Willie Hoppe, 62, but yet an expert cue-man, retained the world's championship three-cushion billiard title at Chicago, by defeating Joe Chamaco, of Mexico City. It was a play-off match, each having won one. . . Dutch Howlett who was exorcised by local fans wrestled in a tag brawl at Pittsburgh and Pierre La Belle, who tackles Gypsy Joe, the "red star" here, March 10, takes on Frank Talaber at Youngstown, Saturday night in the opening bout. Jim London is in the main match. . . The place on a grappling schedule doesn't mean a thing. They wrestle just as well no difference to what bout their assigned. . . "I'd hate meet 'that' man in an alley on a dark night," one fan said of Pierre La Belle, who is small but awfully tough, after seeing him in the tag bout here. . . "From 'corn' to eggs," said Eddie Longacre to Harry Elwell, blackface comedian after reading where Harry asked for a "kind word" and the waitress said: "Don't eat the eggs." Elwell smiled from ear to ear. . . Secretaries of the various sports organizations in the city and county are requested to send the date of their regular meetings, plus the names of their officers to Here & There as soon as possible, so a calendar of their activities may be carried.

Pettit Headed For New Orleans

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Feb. 23.—(INS)—Paul Pettit, the Pittsburgh Pirate $100,000 bonus pitcher, will go on the mound for the last time Saturday in a game between two teams at the Buc Training school in San Bernardino.

Pettit then will leave for New Orleans, where he is assigned to the Class AA Southern Association Pelicans.

Manager Bill Meyer said he is pleased with the catching of 21-year-old Morton Dorton.

A regular backstop with the Pirate's Davenport, Ia., Farm club, Dorton has been assigned to New Orleans this season.

The Washington Redskins inscribed the name of Sammy Baugh on their 1950 roster today with firm assurances from Sammy that he has pigeonholed his ambition to be a coach.

Assistant Athletic Director Louis F. Keller of the University of Minnesota agrees with the easterners that college sports have grown out of proportion and have become a Frankenstein.

Burton Winner Over Costner

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Gene Burton may yet turn out to be welterweight champion Ray Robinson's man Friday.

The New York welterweight, who is a stablemate of Robinson, won a split 10-round decision over George (Sugar) Costner of Cincinnati, in Chicago Stadium last night. Burton's victory not only reversed a decision which Costner was awarded in New York recently but may save Robinson the bother of fighting Costner.

May Meet La Motta

Robinson was scheduled to meet the Ohio boxer in Philadelphia, March 22. Costner's loss, however, may cost him the match.

International Boxing Club officials announced prior to the bout that they would try to get a non-title match for the winner with Middleweight Champion Jake La-Motta.

Only three players are not signed for the coming season. They are pitchers Rex Barney and Clarence Podbellan and rookie infielder Bobby Morgan.

The Grand National, which was first run in 1839, is undoubtedly the world's toughest horse race. They go wheeling uphill and down dale, and around corners, for more than two miles—if they make it.

SOUTH N. C. BORO RESIDENTS NOTE

Effective Feb. 24 and 25 and the Last Fri. & Sat. of each month, thereafter, there will be a clean-up day of cans and rubbish (only).

Mississippi Southern College with an enrollment of about 3,500 and boasting of one of the finest schools of music in the south, insists that it has the realistic rather than hypocritical approach to athletics.

Large Expenditures For New Schools Is Faced

In recent months public attention has been focused upon the condition of several public schools in New Castle. In at least one case the condition seems beyond repair and only replacement will remedy the situation.

In other cases a comprehensive program of repairs and improvements might be some help, but it appears that at least three elementary schools will have to be replaced in the next few years.

Will Cost Money

School buildings are not cheap and it has been estimated that within the next five years the school district will be faced with the necessity of spending about two million dollars for new structures.

Two possible methods of financing such a building program are seen: one, having the state Public School Building Authority finance them, and the other, a bond issue floated by the school district.

In order to acquaint the taxpayers with the probable cost of financing such a building program, the News has investigated both possibilities and in this article intends to set out the cost, the methods and other information thought to be of value.

State Authority

There has been set up in Harrisburg a State Public School Building Authority designed to aid those districts which are in such shape financially that new construction would be a burden if done entirely by the district.

This State Authority intends to sell $25,000,000 worth of bonds to start its operation and its aid to local school districts is provided by the method set out below.

On Two Millions

For the purpose of localizing the picture it can be assumed that New Castle wished to enter a two million dollar building program. An architect would first be selected, by the school board, his plans would then have to be approved by the authority and the buildings are built. The two million dollars would be paid by the Authority and for the next forty years the school district would be "renting" the buildings from the Authority.

During this time the Authority would have paid to the property owner the school district would be merely renters. The rent upon the buildings would be .05413 per dollar worth of construction or $108,260 per year for forty years. Of this amount the state would refund to the school district a sum of money based upon the unit of reimbursement for teaching units.

Reimbursement this year is based on .5979 percent of $3350 for each teaching unit of which there are about 285 in the New Castle public schools.

The state will reimburse the district a sum of money equal to one half the percentage of the fractional unit allowed per teaching unit or in this case 50.5979 or roughly thirty per cent of the building cost.

This would mean that as of this year the state would refund to the school district $32,478 which would reduce the yearly rental to $75,782 which would be paid for forty years.

Percentage Might Change

If the reimbursement fraction remained unchanged for forty years, which it probably would not, the school district would have paid back to the State Authority in forty years $3,031,280 for a loan of $2,000,000.

In the meantime the State Authority owns the buildings during those forty years but it is assumed the local district would be responsible for all repairs, painting, upkeep of equipment and the like.

In short the school district would pay $1.50 for every dollar it got and would be only renters in the properties.

A bond issue for two million dollars shows a somewhat different picture. Secretary John B. Bechtel has worked out a schedule of payments for a nineteen year bond that show the following:

If a bond issue for $2,000,000 were floated it would be for twenty years. The first four years only interest would be paid, and if the money cost two per cent, interest payments of $40,000 per year would be paid each year.

Retirement of bonds would start in the fifth year and the payment including interest and reduction of principal would be $165,000. From then on, up to and including the 18th year the payments would be about $165,000 per year. The 19th year payment would be $40,800, concluding the bond issue. Total payments for the $2,000,000 would be $2,477,200.

If the money were borrowed at 1 3/4 per cent the total payments would be $2,408,888 and if the money could be borrowed at 1 1/2 per cent, the total payments would be $2,344,325.

In other words if the State Authority plan were used the total cost for the $2,000,000 would be $3,031,280 over a period of forty years. Under a bond issue plan the total cost would be from $2,344,325 to $2,477,200 in nineteen years depending upon the interest rate.

Bonding Potential

As of July 1, 1950, the total bonded indebtedness of the New Castle school district will be $814,000. If no other bonds are floated the district will be debt free in 1958.

A school district can bond itself by action of the directors, two per cent of the assessed valuation of the district. The present assessed valuation in New Castle is $51,000,000 which means that the school directors could bond the district for $1,020,000 by their own action. This could be increased to five per cent or $2,550,000 by a vote of the people.

At the present time the bond potential of the New Castle school district is about $660,000, due to the outstanding bonds. By a vote of the people this could be increased to the five per cent figure.

Hence it appears certain that if the school district went into a $2,000,000 building program a vote of the people would be necessary for at least a portion of it, if such a bond issue were floated before 1958.

Coal Action In New York

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—(INS)—The New York Legislature, at the request of Thomas E. Dewey, met the growing coal crisis Wednesday by rushing through a bill giving the state fuel administrator emergency power to seize coal in private hands and impose ceiling prices.

Dewey, who was in New York City, hurried back to Albany to sign the drastic measure into law before nightfall.

Meanwhile, Fuel Administrator Bertram D. Tallamy drafted and sent to all his regional administrators orders covering the unprecedented seizure and price fixing move.

A few minutes after Dewey's special message was read, the bill went through the Senate unanimously and without debate. Assembly approval followed swiftly.

The governor told the lawmakers in a special message that the situation in the state is "grave" and approaching the "desperate stage."

This was the second time in a week that Legislature enacted an emergency coal law. Last week it gave Tallamy vast power to ration coal and restrict its uses, power which already have been utilized.

Plans To Reject His Inheritance Of Huge Fortune

BELOIT, WIS., Feb. 23.—(INS)—A Beloit college professor who inherited a fourth of a multi-million dollar estate planned today to give the money to a "deserving organization to perform some useful purpose" because he did not earn the money himself.

Marriott C. Morris, Jr., a modern language teacher at the college, said he was rejecting his share of the three-and-a-half million dollar inheritance because "I did not earn the money and I do not feel that I have the moral or ethical right to use it," he added.

"I work for a living the same as anyone else with whom I am associated," Morris, son of a late Philadelphia philanthropist, said he wants the money used for some purpose

"conductive for world peace, the greatest need in the world," but did not say what organization he had in mind as the recipient of his gift. He is a Quaker.

The professor joined the college faculty in 1947 and lives with his wife and 10-year-old daughter in a modest, five-room apartment. He is a descendant of prominent colonial families and several of his ancestors signed the Declaration of Independence.

Other heirs are the Beloit man's mother, Mrs. Jane Rhoads Morris, and a brother and sister, Elliston and Janet Morris, all of Philadelphia.

Kiwanians Have Father-Son Day

Wednesday was father and sons day with New Castle Kiwanis club when the fathers brought their sons to the weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton.

They were addressed by Nick

Casillo, of the Senior high school faculty, who gave an interesting and humorous account of a summer he spent in Alaska working for a salmon cannery.

Mr. Casillo and a friend were employed watching fish traps to catch salmon, a lonely job, but yet one which proved interesting. His account of his adventures were most interesting.

The Althing of Iceland is the oldest parliamentary assembly in the world. It was instituted in A. D. 930.
